RUTH SNYDER, HENRY GRAY TO DIE TONIGHT

LAWYERS UNABLE TO PREVENT THE EXECUTION OF 2

NO POSSIBLE LEGAL LOOP HOLE SEEMS TO BE LEFT

EACH DEVELOPMENT CLINCHES MORE FIRMLY THE END

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray must die in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison shortly after 11 o'clock tonight.

Their attorneys failed in every move to circumvent the execution and no possible legal loop hole seemed left.

Events moved rapidly during the day and each development tended to clinch more firmly the certainty of the execution.

A stay granted by Supreme Court Justice Aaron Levy was held illegal by Albert Ottinger, state attorney general, who ruled that Warden Lawes should proceed with the execution.

Samuel Miller, attorney for Gray, conferred with Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard, seeking a writ of habeas corpus but apparently failed.

Warden Lawes was ready to complete the plans for the execution, although he withheld definite announcement at his mid-afternoon conference with newspapermen.

Lawes mentioned that it lay within his discretion to postpone the executions until tomorrow night as the sentences directed him to electrocute the lovers "during the week of January 9." He discounted any such probability, however, commenting that postponement "would mean only 24 hours more of agony for everybody."

As he turned away he added in an undertone, "It'll probably go through tonight."

The last hours of Mrs. Snyder and Gray in their death cells at Sing Sing were spent in the company of relatives seeking to comfort them.

Mrs. Snyder, dejected, listless and without hope, was visited by her mother, Mrs. Josephine Brown and her brother, Andreas Brown, who arrived at the prison at 1:15 P. M. and were ushered to her cell shortly afterwards.

Gray's mother, Mrs. Margaret Gray, arrived at 3 P. M. and was taken in to her son, who laid aside his Bible to come to the cell door and converse through the bars to her in low tones.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Attorney General Albert Ottinger ruled today that Mrs. Ruth Snyder can be executed at Sing Sing prison tonight in accordance with her sentence, despite the stay granted by Supreme Court Justice Aaron Levy in New York.

In an official decision, Ottinger ruled that Justice Levy of New York lacked authority to issue such a stay.

As a matter of courtesy to Justice Levy, it was arranged for an assistant attorney general to appear before him this afternoon and, after informing him of the ruling, ask him to vacate his order.

In case Justice Levy refuses, the appellate court probably will be asked to vacate the order, but in any case, it was not believed the execution could be delayed.

The attorney general gave his decision orally shortly before 1 P. M., but did not have his written opinion ready.

"My opinion is unchanged," said Ottinger, when newspaper men asked him if he had reached a conclusion.

Previously he had said unofficially that he could see no reason whereby the Levy writ could be made, to apply as a stay of execution.

"Then you believe that the ap-

FARM WOMEN DEMAND STRICT DRY ENFORCEMENT

Des Moines, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Absolute enforcement of the prohibition amendment and nomination of dry candidates for all offices were demanded in resolutions passed by farm women attending the convention of the Iowa Farm Bureau federation in session here today.

The resolutions were adopted unanimously by 350 women delegates.

HICKMAN TO TRIAL JAN. 25 AT LOS ANGELES

JUDGE DENIES PLEA THAT THE SLAYER BE MADE WARD OF JUVENILE COURTS

ATTORNEY NOW SEEKING AFFIDAVITS IN ATTEMPT TO PROVE HICKMAN INSANE

Los Angeles, Jan. 12.—(UP)—The last obstacle which might have delayed the trial of Edward William Hickman has been removed and the slayer of Marion Parker will go on trial here January 25.

Hickman lost a contention which might have delayed his trial when Judge Robert Scott denied a petition, asking that the slayer be made a ward of the juvenile courts.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 12.—The fight to save Edward Hickman, youthful Los Angeles murderer, from the gallows, "was to shift into Arkansas tomorrow when his attorney, Jerome Walsh, expects to obtain depositions from officials of the Arkansas state insane asylum, for use in attempting to prove his client insane.

Mrs. Eva Hickman, Edward's mother, once was confined in the Arkansas institution, and Walsh will attempt to prove Hickman was suffering from "hereditary insanity" when he killed Marion Parker.

REPORT ON SMITH ELECTION CASE SOON SUBMITTED

Washington, Jan. 12.—(UP)—The senate primary investigating committee will submit to the senate today its report in the case of Senator-elect Frank L. Smith of Illinois, Chairman James A. Reed announced.

Most committee members desire to submit only a record of the refusal of Smith to recognize the committee's right to try him in connection with his campaign expenditures, without giving any recommendation as to senate action thereon.

Senator La Follette of Wisconsin is opposed to this procedure and may submit a resolution demanding that the senate consider the case closed.

TWO BANK MESSENGERS HELD UP AT DULUTH

Duluth, Minn., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Two messengers of the Bank of Commerce, Superior, were held up and robbed of $400 on an inter-city street car today.

The messengers, Eino Dixon and Walter G. Nelson, were en route to the bank when they were accosted by two bandits.

The bandits escaped in an automobile after alighting from the street car.

Lionel Larson of Superior saw them enter their car with the money bags and followed them in his automobile but lost trace in Superior.

GEN. R. E. WOOD NEW PRESIDENT OF SEARS, ROEBUCK & CO.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—(UP)—General R. E. Wood has been elected president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., succeeding the late C. M. Kittle, Julius Rosenwald, chairman of the board, announced today.

Wood has been vice president in charge of retail stores.

15 BODIES FROM THE SUNKEN SUB S-4 IDENTIFIED

NAMES OF DEAD ARE TO BE ANNOUNCED BY NAVY DEPARTMENT

32 BODIES NOW RECOVERED, ONLY EIGHT REMAIN IN SUBMARINE

Boston, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Fifteen bodies removed yesterday from the sunken submarine S-4 have been identified at the Chelsea naval hospital. Names of the dead will be announced by the navy department Washington, probably today.

Thirty-two bodies have been recovered and only eight remain in the wrecked undersea boat. Six victims are known to be in the as yet unexplored torpedo room, thus leaving only two bodies unaccounted for.

Provincetown, Mass., Jan. 12.—Salvage work and the naval inquiry into the submarine disaster progressed side by side here today.

The destroyer Maury, with members of the board of inquiry, witnesses and newspapermen aboard, lay off this port, close to the scene of the sinking of the undersea craft which went down Dec. 17 with a loss of 40 lives.

While naval authorities seeking to place responsibility for the crash viewed the scene, divers, working in pairs, continued operations preparatory to unwatering and raising the sunken hull.

Only eight bodies remained in the S-4. Six of these were known to be in the torpedo room. Today's operations were concentrated on an effort to prepare the torpedo compartment for unwatering.

Later today, the collision between the destroyer Paulding and the S-4 was to be re-enacted for the benefit of the board of inquiry, with the coast guard destroyer Monahan and the submarine S-3 representing the craft involved in the accident.

CHICAGO OFFICER IS SOUGHT FOR MURDER

Chicago, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Alexander Schwaben, former vice investigator, who according to police is now a lieutenant in one of Chicago's liquor gangs, was sought today for the murder of Vincent Ceraglioli, who was killed after he had escorted Schwaben's wife home.

According to Mrs. Schwaben she met Ceraglioli last night and the Italian asked to take her home. He left her a few steps from her home and turned toward town.

Schwaben ran him down in an automobile, the woman said, and shot him.

SHERIFF AND TWO DEPUTIES SHOOT TWO UNKNOWN MEN

Rankin, Tex., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Sheriff J. O. Barfield of Upton county and Deputies Clarence Shannon and Hugh Killip shot and killed two unidentified men here shortly after 4 a. m. today.

The officers said the men had forced entry to the First State Bank. The sheriff had been tipped yesterday that an attempt would be made to rob the bank and had been in wait for the arrival of the robbers.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR HIRAM I. DARWIN

Afton, Minn., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Funeral services will be held here Friday for Hiram I. Darwin, 48, whose body was recovered from the St. Croix river near here late yesterday. The body of Charles Pollard, 19, of Minneapolis, drowned with Darwin when their automobile went through the ice on the river Sunday, also was recovered.

STATE MILL OF NORTH DAKOTA INVESTIGATED

Bismarck, N. D., Jan. 12.—(UP)—The joint senate and house committee of the state legislature was to start investigation today of the state mill and elevator at Grand Forks.

J. W. Carr, speaker of the house, late Wednesday named 17 members of that body to act on the committee. The house members will be headed in their actions by Edwin Traynor of Ramsey county. Expectations are that the special sessions of the legislature will be short with three sessions a day called for.

Several bills were to be read during the day.

S. S. GRIFFCO SENDS OUT S. O. S. CALLS

ESTIMATED TO BE 384 MILES TO SEA FROM PORTLAND, ORE.

NO INDICATION OF CAUSE OF DISTRESS GIVEN IN MESSAGES

Portland, Ore., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Repeated S. O. S. radio calls believed to have been sent out by the S. S. Griffco, owned by the Inter Island Steamship Company and 48 hours out of Port Townsend, Wash., ceased shortly before one o'clock this morning.

The ship was estimated to be about 384 miles out at the time of the S. O. S. calls were received here. The boat was enroute to Honolulu. The Mackay radio station here picked up the calls late last night but could not determine the position of the boat.

Each of the S. O. S. calls were signed Griffco or KDFN and said "S. O. S. Help, help." No indication of cause of the distress was given in the messages.

At three A. M. Pacific standard time, nothing further had been heard from the ship. The first calls were received at 10:40 P. M. last night.

While the call letters KDFN were not listed in shipping records here, the Griffco, formerly an English vessel, may have recently adopted this call.

The Griffco was recently purchased by the Inter Island Steamship Company from the Coastwise Steamship & Barge Co., Ltd., and is a vessel of 1426 tons.

The Griffco is a freighter and carried no passengers, it was learned early today.

TOWN IS SUBJECT TO PEACE TIME 'STRAFFING'

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 12.—(UP)—The town of Clayton, Ga., has been subjected to a peace-time "straffing" from the air as a result of four-year-old misdemeanor charges brought there against Ruth Elder, Anniston, Ala., aviatrix.

Lieut. Ferman A. Stone and Lieut. Elmer M. Rutz, officers of the 106th observation squadron, Roberts field, here, took off in a service plane and for a half hour bombarded the town with copies of an editorial from the Birmingham Post which read in part: "Pretty cheap stuff after four years!"

HELD '1,600 PINOCCHIO' HAND AND THEN FAINTED

Chicago, Jan. 11.—(UP)—Vernon Follet held a "1,600 pinocchio" hand in a game here. Being a conventional person, he fainted. He had all the diamonds.

TWO NOW IN HOSPITAL, 3RD GIRL COLLAPSED

MAN FIRST ATTACKED THELMA WEAVER, 13-YEAR-OLD HIGH SCHOOL GIRL

SNATCHED HER ARM AND THEN STABBED HER IN THE BACK, SHE SAID

Columbus, O., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Two girls were attacked by a "Ripper" and slashed with a long slender knife here last night. The two were in a hospital today, where their conditions were reported as serious.

A third girl, sister of one of those attacked, was on the verge of a nervous collapse.

The man first attacked Thelma Weaver, 13-year-old high school girl. She was going to her home on the west side when the man suddenly pounced upon her. He snatched her arm and stabbed her in the back, she said.

The "Ripper" fled when she screamed and while police were searching for him, he was stalking two other girls, Lulu, 16, and Mabel Thompson, 18, a few blocks from where Thelma was attacked.

As the sisters turned into an unlighted street, the fiend silently came up behind them. He brought the knife down Lulu's neck, missing the jugular vein by half an inch. Mabel fled screaming and the Ripper disappeared.

Although both girls will recover, they with the girl who escaped, were in a highly nervous state early this morning. The Weaver girl's back bears a six inch slash. Her coat was ripped more than 12 inches. A five-inch gash was made in Miss Thompson's neck and back. She was in a dangerous condition from loss of blood.

Every available policeman on the west side was ordered out to look for the man.

Held in Connection With Death of Brother

St. Paul, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Frank Henderson is held by police today in connection with the death of his brother following a quarrel in their home here last night.

Police said Frank admitted that he and his brother Vern fought with knives while their mother, Mrs. Hattie Henderson, witnessed the scuffle.

After felling Vern, Frank fled but was captured by detectives a short time later. Vern died about an hour after he was taken to a hospital.

Frank told police that he did not know how the argument started.

THREE BANDITS FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

Los Angeles, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Three young bandits, Marvey Leshner, Mike Garvey and Phil Rohan, were found guilty last night of the first degree murder of A. R. Miles, druggist, slain in a holdup last November 1. The jury recommended life imprisonment for the trio.

One of the witnesses in the trial asserted that "William Edward Hickman looked more like the leader of the gang that killed Miles than any of the defendants in the case."

MRS. CALVIN COOLIDGE VISITS SICK MOTHER

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge arrived here from Washington at 10:15 a. m. today, and went immediately to Dickinson hospital, where her elderly mother, Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, is ill with influenza.

The first lady was met here by her son, John, who had come from Amherst college.

KILEAUEA WHICH ROARED IN HAWAII HAS NOW SUBSIDED

Volcano House, Island of Hawaii, Jan. 12.—(UP)—The eruption of the Kilauea volcano which started with a tremendous avalanche in Halemauana pit at 12:40 a. m. Wednesday, had subsided early today.

The flow of molten lava was beginning to subside.

COL. LINDBERGH PREDICTS NEW AIR LANES

WILL BRING PANAMA AND NEW YORK WITHIN 48 HOURS OF EACH OTHER

AVIATOR ADDRESSES 2000 CANAL EMPLOYEES AT PANAMA CITY

By SEYMOUR PAUL

Panama City, Jan. 12.—Preparatory to leaving the western section of Panama, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has predicted air connections that will bring Panama and New York within 48 hours of each other.

"Within a relatively short time I expect to see air connections established that will bring Panama and New York within 48 hours of each other," he said in addressing 2,000 canal employees.

The prediction brought ringing cheers.

Lindbergh today will hop off for Colon. He is thus far undetermined on his next exact flights after that but expects to visit in Venezuela, Saint Thomas in the Virgin Islands, Porto Rico and Haiti. The sequence of these flights and the actual stops have not been determined as yet by the good-will flyer.

One thing is certain, however, Lindbergh is sure he will not be in Havana in time for the opening of the sixth Pan-American conference. Lindbergh appeared before the canal employees at Balboa yesterday and was introduced by acting Gov. Burgess.

"The principal object of my flight through Central America and northern South America is to arouse interest in commercial airlines through these countries. There is no reason that airlines would not be entirely feasible and profitable. There is a greater need for airlines in this area, where they would save days in place of hours, than in other countries where other means of transportation are highly developed," he said.

FUNERAL RITES FOR BENJAMIN F. NELSON

Minneapolis, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Funeral services will be held Saturday for Benjamin F. Nelson, 85, civil war veteran and prominent Minnesota lumberman. He died at his home here Wednesday.

Nelson was also interested in a number of agricultural projects. Among his holdings was Walnut farm in Rice county.

He was president of the board of regents of the University of Minnesota in 1914 and served on the board for 11 years.

Nelson came to Minnesota in 1868. After working as a logger in the number of lumber camps he returned to Minneapolis and went into business. He later became interested in the manufacture of paper and built a large mill at Little Falls.

He is survived by the widow and two sons.

WEATHERMAN SMILES ON NORTHWEST TODAY

St. Paul, Jan. 12.—(UP)—The weatherman continued to smile on the northwest today as he issued another encouraging prediction that the skies will remain fair and temperatures tonight will be near the freezing mark. St. Paul was one of the coldest spots in the northwest last night, the mercury dropping as low as 30 above zero.

IT TAKES WORK AND ACTION TO OVERCOME SAME

GOVERNOR SPEAKS TO DELEGATES TO STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY

DEPRESSION THAT EXISTS CANNOT BE OVERCOME BY VAPID THINKING

St. Paul, Jan. 12.—(UP)—It will take work and action to overcome the handicaps that stand as barriers across the path to prosperity for the nation and the northwest farmer, Governor Theodore Christianson told delegates to the State Agricultural Society convention in session here today.

The depression that exists throughout the nation cannot be overcome by vapid talking, the state executive declared.

The state agriculturalists are meeting in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Minnesota Federation of County Fairs.

Urging completion of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway, improvement of the Mississippi river barge line and a remedy of the tariff, the governor pointed out that these reforms would aid materially in improving agricultural conditions.

"The condition of agriculture in the northwest is subject to four principal handicaps which cannot possibly be overcome by mere talking and speech-making," Governor Christianson said.

"It may take years to overcome these obstacles, and it may take a shorter time, depending upon the willingness which every man puts his shoulder to the wheel. I cannot join in seeing a large visionary 'prosperity' for 1928," he added.

The governor then listed the handicaps which he believes stand in the way of prosperity. They are:

1. "The world price level is so low that the farmer does not get an adequate return for his products. The tariff should be changed to remedy this condition.
2. "The huge burden of mortgage indebtedness incurred when money was cheap must now be paid off when prices for farm products are lower and money more generally costly.
3. "The system of taxation places a large part of the burden of operation of schools, the state government and other governmental expenditures on the shoulders of the farmers.
4. "The farmers of the northwest are suffering from economic isolation which will be partly remedied by the completion of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway."

Thomas H. Canfield, secretary, submitted his annual report, showing a profit of $3,287 for the past year.

In a short address, William F. Sanger, president, traced the history of the Minnesota State Fair from 1857 to the present time. He stressed the work the fairs of the state are doing among the school children.

The political pot continues to brew today, with forces centering on the ousting of Canfield as secretary. The election is to be staged Friday, when managers will be named. The secretary will be appointed at the meeting of new officers Tuesday.

The entire slate of old officers of the Minnesota Federation of County Fairs was re-elected at the close of the meeting late Wednesday. New directors were chosen as follows: William Lindemann, New Ulm, 2nd district; Robert Freeman, Rose Hill, 4th district; B. H. Otte, Sauk Center, 6th district; Ira Stanley, Princeton, 10th district; and Fred D. W. Thias, Two Harbors, 8th district, who was the only one re-elected. Directors of other districts hold office another year.

Officers of the federation who were re-elected are L. O. Jacob, Anoka, president; George H. Bailey, Browns Valley, vice president; R. F. Hall, Minneapolis, secretary; and Charles L. Lewis, Farmington, treasurer.

The man first attacked Thelma Weaver, 13-year-old high school girl. She was going to her home on the west side when the man suddenly pounced upon her. He snatched her arm and stabbed her in the back, she said.

The "Ripper" fled when she screamed and while police were searching for him, he was stalking two other girls, Lulu, 16, and Mabel Thompson, 18, a few blocks from where Thelma was attacked.

As the sisters turned into an unlighted street, the fiend silently came up behind them. He brought the knife down Lulu's neck, missing the jugular vein by half an inch. Mabel fled screaming and the Ripper disappeared.

Although both girls will recover, they with the girl who escaped, were in a highly nervous state early this morning. The Weaver girl's back bears a six inch slash. Her coat was ripped more than 12 inches. A five-inch gash was made in Miss Thompson's neck and back. She was in a dangerous condition from loss of blood.

Every available policeman on the west side was ordered out to look for the man.

Held in Connection With Death of Brother

St. Paul, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Frank Henderson is held by police today in connection with the death of his brother following a quarrel in their home here last night.

Police said Frank admitted that he and his brother Vern fought with knives while their mother, Mrs. Hattie Henderson, witnessed the scuffle.

After felling Vern, Frank fled but was captured by detectives a short time later. Vern died about an hour after he was taken to a hospital.

Frank told police that he did not know how the argument started.

THREE BANDITS FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

Los Angeles, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Three young bandits, Marvey Lesher, Mike Garvey and Phil Rohan, were found guilty last night of the first degree murder of A. R. Miles, druggist, slain in a holdup last November 1. The jury recommended life imprisonment for the trio.

One of the witnesses in the trial asserted that "William Edward Hickman looked more like the leader of the gang that killed Miles than any of the defendants in the case."

MRS. CALVIN COOLIDGE VISITS SICK MOTHER

Northampton, Mass., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge arrived here from Washington at 10:15 a. m. today, and went immediately to Dickinson hospital, where her elderly mother, Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, is ill with influenza.

The first lady was met here by her son, John, who had come from Amherst college.

KILAUEA WHICH ROARED IN HAWAII HAS NOW SUBSIDED

Volcano House, Island of Hawaii, Jan. 12.—(U.P.)—The eruption of the Kilauea volcano which started with a tremendous avalanche in Halemaumau pit at 12:40 a. m. Wednesday, had subsided early today.

The flow of molten lava was beginning to subside.

COL. LINDBERGH PREDICTS NEW AIR LANES

WILL BRING PANAMA AND NEW YORK WITHIN 48 HOURS OF EACH OTHER

AVIATOR ADDRESSES 2000 CANAL EMPLOYEES AT PANAMA CITY

By SEYMOUR PAUL

Panama City, Jan. 12.—Preparatory to leaving the western section of Panama, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh has predicted air connections that will bring Panama and New York within 48 hours of each other.

"Within a relatively short time I expect to see air connections established that will bring Panama and New York within 48 hours of each other," he said in addressing 2,000 canal employees.

The prediction brought ringing cheers.

Lindbergh today will hop off for Colon. He is thus far undetermined on his next exact flights after that but expects to visit in Venezuela, Saint Thomas in the Virgin Islands, Porto Rico and Haiti. The sequence of these flights and the actual stops have not been determined as yet by the good-will flyer.

One thing is certain, however, Lindbergh is sure he will not be in Havana in time for the opening of the sixth Pan-American conference.

Lindbergh appeared before the canal employees at Balboa yesterday and was introduced by acting Gov. Burgess.

"The principal object of my flight through Central America and northern South America is to arouse interest in commercial airlines through these countries. There is no reason that airlines would not be entirely feasible and profitable. There is a greater need for airlines in this area, where they would save days in place of hours, than in other countries where other means of transportation are highly developed," he said.

FUNERAL RITES FOR BENJAMIN F. NELSON

Minneapolis, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Funeral services will be held Saturday for Benjamin F. Nelson, 85, civil war veteran and prominent Minnesota lumberman. He died at his home here Wednesday.

Nelson was also interested in a number of agricultural projects. Among his holdings was Walnut farm in Rice county.

He was president of the board of regents of the University of Minnesota in 1914 and served on the board for 11 years.

Nelson came to Minnesota in 1868. After working as a logger in the number of lumber camps he returned to Minneapolis and went into business. He later became interested in the manufacture of paper and built a large mill at Little Falls.

He is survived by the widow and two sons.

WEATHERMAN SMILES ON NORTHWEST TODAY

St. Paul, Jan. 12.—(UP)—The weatherman continued to smile on the northwest today as he issued another encouraging prediction that the skies will remain fair and temperatures tonight will be near the freezing mark.

IT TAKES WORK AND ACTION TO OVERCOME SAME

GOVERNOR SPEAKS TO DELEGATES TO STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY

DEPRESSION THAT EXISTS CANNOT BE OVERCOME BY VAPID THINKING

St. Paul, Jan. 12.—(UP)—It will take work and action to overcome the handicaps that stand as barriers across the path to prosperity for the nation and the northwest farmer, Governor Theodore Christiananson told delegates to the State Agricultural Society convention in session here today.

The depression that exists throughout the nation cannot be overcome by vapid talking, the state executive declared.

The state agriculturalists are meeting in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Minnesota Federation of County Fairs.

Urging completion of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway, improvement of the Mississippi river barge line and a remedy of the tariff, the governor pointed out that these reforms would aid materially in improving agricultural conditions.

"The condition of agriculture in the northwest is subject to four principal handicaps which cannot possibly be overcome by mere talking and speech-making," Governor Christiananson said.

"It may take years to overcome these obstacles, and it may take a shorter time, depending upon the willingness which every man puts his shoulder to the wheel. I cannot join in seeing a large visionary 'prosperity' for 1928," he added.

The governor then listed the handicaps which he believes stand in the way of prosperity. They are:

1. "The world price level is so low that the farmer does not get an adequate return for his products. The tariff should be changed to remedy this condition.
2. "The huge burden of mortgage indebtedness incurred when money was cheap must now be paid off when prices for farm products are lower and money more generally costly.
3. "The system of taxation places a large part of the burden of operation of schools, the state government and other governmental expenditures on the shoulders of the farmers.
4. "The farmers of the northwest are suffering from economic isolation which will be partly remedied by the completion of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway."

Thomas H. Canfield, secretary, submitted his annual report, showing a profit of $3,287 for the past year.

In a short address, William F. Sanger, president, traced the history of the Minnesota State Fair from 1857 to the present time. He stressed the work the fairs of the state are doing among the school children.

The political pot continues to brew today, with forces centering on the ousting of Canfield as secretary. The election is to be staged Friday, when managers will be named. The secretary will be appointed at the meeting of new officers Tuesday.

The entire slate of old officers of the Minnesota Federation of County Fairs was re-elected at the close of the meeting late Wednesday. New directors were chosen as follows: William Lindemann, New Ulm, 2nd district; Robert Freeman, Rose Hill, 4th district; B. H. Otte, Sauk Center, 6th district; Ira Stanley, Princeton, 10th district; and Fred D. W. Thias, Two Harbors, 8th district, who was the only one re-elected. Directors of other districts hold office another year.

Officers of the federation who were re-elected are L. O. Jacob, Anoka, president; George H. Bailey, Browns Valley, vice president; R. F. Hall, Minneapolis, secretary; and Charles L. Lewis, Farmington, treasurer.

NORTHLAND TRIO

To Give Recital at Swedish Baptist Church Next Saturday Evening

Next Saturday evening at the Swedish Baptist church at 8:30 o'clock the Northland Trio will give a recital. They will give group numbers in both English and Swedish language. One of the papers, Journal of Commerce, Chicago said: "Like a nosegay of gayly colored flowers looked the three daughters of Sweden who constitute the Northland Trio, as they clustered themselves on the stage for their concert work yesterday. Their work was a distinct surprise. The voices are of a crystalline purity, they blend perfectly and they sang as one. They accomplished some rare effects."

Tickets for this recital may be secured at many of the leading stores in the city, or from members of the church.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
Brainerd, Minn.

BRAINERD 25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

January 11, 1903
Just twenty years ago today Cashier Geo. D. LaBar arrived in Brainerd to accept a minor position in the First National bank. Since that time he has risen to an important position and during his long service in the business world of Brainerd has won the confidence and esteem of all.

M. K. Swartz and W. A. M. Johnstone will leave this evening for St. Paul to attend the meeting of the State Agricultural society.

A. Marks is smiling more than usual these days because Estey & Leigh, of Rich Prairie, are about to put in a good sized saw and planing mill at the new town of Midland.

J. S. Dunn, a brother of H. P. Dunn, left this morning for Sauk Center where he will visit with a sister a short time before proceeding to his home in Kenyon, Minn.

Mr. Murray has sold his grocery business to S. E. Engbretson and Ole Dahl, both well known and popular young business men in the city and they have already taken charge. The firm will be Engbretson and Dahl. Mr. Engbretson has been with Mr. Lagerquist for some time and previous to that worked for other grocery men in the city. He is extremely popular and should have a large following. Mr. Dahl has been with Mr. Murray for some time and he is also one of the leading young grocery men of the city.

Ray Warren who is visiting in Tombstone, Arizona, writes that it is 84 degrees in the shade.

January 12, 1903

The high school basketball team will play the St. Cloud team Saturday at St. Cloud. The Normals have the reputation of always turning out a good team, but the local team is also a good one and a first class game is anticipated.

J. M. Elder left this afternoon for St. Paul on business.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Hall entertained a number of friends in honor of their niece, Miss Hall, who is visiting in the city from southern Minnesota. There were about thirty young people present.

There is a well shaped movement on foot by prominent residents of East Brainerd to have the Third ward, one of the largest wards in the city, divided, and a petition is now being circulated among the taxpayers by Col. Henry Jones with this end in view.

Yesterday afternoon the First National bank had their annual election and other business matters were disposed of. The following officers were again put in: A. F. Ferris, president; G. D. LaBar, cashier; and another office, assistant cashier added to which F. A. Farrar was elected.

Tomorrow night the event of interest will be the M. W. A. entertainment and ball. An excellent musical and literary program has been prepared and W. I. Nolan, the Minneapolis entertainer, will be here. A grand ball will be given after the entertainment.

Miss Edna Olson Entertains

Miss Edna Olson, 821½ 11th Ave. N. E., entertained informally for a group of friends Tuesday evening at her home.

Camp Fire Girls Food and Rummage Sale

The Ohi-ta-ya and the Wad-i-ta-ka Camp Fire groups of the Lincoln school will hold a food and rummage sale in the building formerly occupied by Mathieson's shoe store, Saturday, January 14.

HI-Y CLUB MEETS

Decide on Two Meeting a Month; Members to Have Charge

The Hi-Y club met at the Y. M. C. A. last evening for their first meeting of the new year. Alex. Nelson, president, presiding. The well known "Hi-Y" bean feed was enjoyed by twenty five members in attendance.

A general discussion of the new year's work was held and it was agreed that speakers for two evenings a month be secured. One meeting will be held for social purposes and the other for business and discussion. Each meeting two different members will discuss some subject of interest, such as a Bible story or current event. Wm. Johnstone and Donald Geist will have the subjects for next week.

Henry Viken was elected captain of the basketball team. They will practise at the "Y." Saturday afternoons.

Four new members were put through the ritual of the club. Raymond Nelson, Clarence Wetterlund, Wm. Johnstone, Joseph Armstrong and Roger Kleven.

J. W. RAND TRANSFERRED

Leaves for Waukesha, Wis., to Have Charge of Store; New Manager Arrives

J. W. Rand, manager of the Woolworth store in Brainerd for the past seven years left this afternoon for Waukesha, Wis., where he has been transferred to have charge of the Woolworth store there. Mrs. Rand and family will join him as soon as Mr. Rand becomes established.

L. S. Harger, of Minneapolis arrived in Brainerd today and will have charge as manager of the local store. He will move his wife and family here soon.

Mr. Rand came to Brainerd in 1921 from Kenosha, Wis.

Mrs. E. Haake Honor Guest

Mrs. E. Haake, 509 E. street N. E., was honor guest at a party given Tuesday afternoon at her home to celebrate her birthday anniversary. The afternoon was spent informally after which a delicious luncheon was served. Mrs. Haake received many gifts from her friends.

and adopted. A splendid program will be rendered. Officers for the year will be elected. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Hilding Swanson and Mrs. August Samuelson. Let us have full house this evening and thus encourage the work and the workers.

The program committee of the Luther League will meet at the class of the program this evening.

NORTHLAND TRIO

To Give Recital at Swedish Baptist Church Next Saturday Evening

Next Saturday evening at the Swedish Baptist church at 8:30 o'clock the Northland Trio will give a recital. They will give group numbers in both English and Swedish language. One of the papers, Journal of Commerce, Chicago said: "Like a nosegay of gayly colored flowers looked the three daughters of Sweden who constitute the Northland Trio, as they clustered themselves on the stage for their concert yesterday. Their work was a distinct surprise. The voices are of a crystalline purity, they blend perfectly and they sang as one. They accomplished some rare effects."

Tickets for this recital may be secured at many of the leading stores in the city, or from members of the church.

Garfield P. T. A.

The Garfield P. T. A. will hold its regular monthly meeting Friday afternoon, January 13, at 3:20 o'clock.

Anderson-Nordeen

Harry W. Anderson of Pillager and Edith Nordeen of Stren, Wis., were united in marriage at noon today at the Clara Lutheran church. Rev. August Samuelson officiating. They were attended by Henry Peterson of Pillager and Mabel Nordeen of Minneapolis. They left this evening for Duluth and other places for a short honeymoon. On their return they will make their home on the Charley Anderson farm northwest of Pillager.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK
Brainerd, Minn.

BRAINERD
25 YEARS AGO

From the Daily Dispatch

January 11, 1903

Just twenty years ago today Cashier Geo. D. LaBar arrived in Brainerd to accept a minor position in the First National bank. Since that time he has risen to an important position and during his long service in the business world of Brainerd has won the confidence and esteem of all.

M. K. Swartz and W. A. M. Johnstone will leave this evening for St. Paul to attend the meeting of the State Agricultural society.

A. Marks is smiling more than usual these days because Estey & Leigh, of Rich Prairie, are about to put in a good sized saw and planing mill at the new town of Midland.

J. S. Dunn, a brother of H. P. Dunn, left this morning for Sauk Center where he will visit with a sister a short time before proceeding to his home in Kenyon, Minn.

Mr. Murray has sold his grocery business to S. E. Engbretson and Ole Dahl, both well known and popular young business men in the city and they have already taken charge. The firm will be Engbretson and Dahl. Mr. Engbretson has been with Mr. Lagerquist for some time and previous to that worked for other grocery men in the city. He is extremely popular and should have a large following. Mr. Dahl has been with Mr. Murray for some time and he is also one of the leading young grocery men of the city.

Ray Warren who is visiting in Tombstone, Arizona, writes that it is 84 degrees in the shade.

January 12, 1903

The high school basketball team will play the St. Cloud team Saturday at St. Cloud. The Normals have the reputation of always turning out a good team, but the local team is also a good one and a first class game is anticipated.

J. M. Elder left this afternoon for St. Paul on business.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Hall entertained a number of friends in honor of their niece, Miss Hall, who is visiting in the city from southern Minnesota. There were about thirty young people present.

There is a well shaped movement on foot by prominent residents of East Brainerd to have the Third ward, one of the largest wards in the city, divided, and a petition is now being circulated among the taxpayers by Col. Henry Joncas with this end in view.

Yesterday afternoon the First National bank had their annual election and other business matters were disposed of. The following officers were again put in: A. F. Ferris, president; G. D. LaBar, cashier; and another office, assistant cashier added to which F. A. Farrar was elected.

Tomorrow night the event of interest will be the M. W. A. entertainment and ball. An excellent musical and literary program has been prepared and W. I. Nolan, the Minneapolis entertainer, will be here. A grand ball will be given after the entertainment.

Miss Edna Olson Entertains

Miss Edna Olson, 821 1/2 11th Ave. N. E., entertained informally for a group of friends Tuesday evening at her home.

Camp Fire Girls Food and Rummage Sale

The Ohi-ta-ya and the Wad-i-ta-ka Camp Fire groups of the Lincoln school will hold a food and rummage sale in the building formerly occupied by Mathieson's shoe store, Saturday, January 14.

Calles' Son a Military Student in U. S.

Commandant David B. MacCreedy of the Peekskill Military academy (left), and Alfredo E. Calles, son of the President of Mexico, who is a student of the school.

HI-Y CLUB MEETS

Decide on Two Meeting a Month; Members to Have Charge

The Hi-Y club met at the Y. M. C. A. last evening for their first meeting of the new year. Alex. Nelson, president, presiding. The well known "Hi-Y" bean feed was enjoyed by twenty five members in attendance.

A general discussion of the new year's work was held and it was agreed that speakers for two evenings a month be secured. One meeting will be held for social purposes and the other for business and discussion. Each meeting two different members will discuss some subject of interest, such as a Bible story or current event. Wm. Johnstone and Donald Geist will have the subjects for next week.

Henry Viken was elected captain of the basketball team. They will practise at the "Y" Saturday afternoons.

Four new members were put through the ritual of the club, Raymond Nelson, Clarence Wetterland, Wm. Johnstone, Joseph Armstrong and Roger Kleven.

J. W. RAND TRANSFERRED

Leaves for Waukesha, Wis., to Have Charge of Store; New Manager Arrives

J. W. Rand, manager of the Woolworth store in Brainerd for the past seven years left this afternoon for Waukesha, Wis., where he has been transferred to have charge of the Woolworth store there. Mrs. Rand and family will join him as soon as Mr. Rand becomes established.

I. S. Harger, of Minneapolis arrived in Brainerd today and will have charge as manager of the local store. He will move his wife and family here soon.

Mr. Rand came to Brainerd in 1921 from Kenosha, Wis.

Mrs. E. Haake Honor Guest

Mrs. E. Haake, 509 E. street N. E., was honor guest at a party given Tuesday afternoon at her home to celebrate her birthday anniversary. The afternoon was spent informally after which a delicious luncheon was served. Mrs. Haake received many gifts from her friends.

and adopted. A splendid program will be rendered. Officers for the year will be elected. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Hilding Swanson and Mrs. August Samuelson. Let us have full house this evening and thus encourage the work and the workers.

The program committee of the Luther League will meet at the class of the program this evening.

A Raw, Sore Throat

eases quickly when you apply a little Musterole. It penetrates to the sore spot with a gentle tingle, loosens the congestion and draws out the soreness and pain and won't blister like the old-fashioned mustard plaster.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment made with oil of mustard. Brings quick relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds on the chest.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Spring is coming—in about four months.

Only 347 more shopping days until Christmas.

This weather is so rotten that we'll not say a word about coal.

Our own weather report—Snow and colder.

The above was taken from "A Coal Dealer's Prayer."

Now that your Christmas bills are all paid (?) the next event will be the income tax.

The garment factory seems assured and we are mighty glad of it. It will employ 30 to 50 girls and women. We wonder if this is the reason the men responded so wonderfully to establish it here.

When most of us men folks dress up, all we need is a clothes brush.

We did not witness this but was told of it. A certain popular young lady of our acquaintance was tripping along Laurel Street the other day on her way to work. A short distance back an elderly man was very much interested in her and became so hopelessly dazed that he stepped into an open man-hole on the sidewalk.

We note that a certain automobile concern is manufacturing a car that will travel 80 miles an hour all day. Gosh, we don't want a car like that. We'd get so far away that it would take us a day to come back.

SPECIAL SURPRISE WEEK AT LYCEUM

Covers Period From Saturday, January 14 to Friday, January 20, Inclusive

FINE ENTERTAINMENT

Guaranteed to Please, Presented With Added Attractions All Week

The Lyceum is preparing to give local theatre goers the biggest week of entertainment in the history of the theatre. W. R. Hiller, local F. & R. manager has entered the circuit contest of F. & R. managers and hopes to win one of the prizes offered by the firm. Every program has been carefully prepared with only the very latest and best pictures selected.

Opening the week Saturday, January 14 the ever popular western star Tom Mix will be seen in his latest picture entitled "55,000 Reward." A new serial will also start on this day.

For Sunday and Monday, January 15 and 16 the screen's most popular comedy team Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton will be presented in their newest comedy special "Wife Savers." The Lyceum has the honor of being the first to show it in the northwest. Owing to many requests, Brainerd's own local movie "The Cub Reporter," which was taken here last year, will be also shown on the above two days, Sunday and Monday along with one of "Our Gang" comedies and views of Lindbergh in Mexico.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, January 17 and 18, comes the big prize winning melodrama special of 1927, the "Underworld." Our advice is, don't miss this big picture as they say it is a wonderful, thrilling romance of the underworld. The Old Fiddlers contest will also start on Tuesday, January 17. Several old timers have already signed up. Cash prizes will be offered.

Then on Thursday and Friday, January 19 and 20, Milton Sills comes in his new outdoor picture "The Valley of the Giants." Peter B. Kyne's thrilling drama of the California redwoods. The finals of the Old Fiddlers contest will be held on Thursday, January 19, between shows.

Manager Hiller is trying to keep secret the big surprise for Friday night, but same is to be announced in tomorrow's Dispatch. However he says a certain person who is nationally known, has been secured at big expense and will appear in person at both performances, Friday night. With this wonderful array of pictures it looks as though the Lyceum will be taxed to its capacity each day of the big week, which starts Saturday.

THINGS THAT NEVER HAPPEN

By GENE BYRNES

Lois Wilson and J. Warren Kenigan in a scene from the Paramount Picture "THE COVERED WAGON"

Sweethearts Have Trying Times in "The Covered Wagon"

The course of true love ran anything but smoothly in the old pioneer days, judging from "The Covered Wagon" which opens at the Lyceum theatre tonight on its second triumphant visit.

The great wagon train of 1848 sets out for Oregon. Molly Wingate, the heroine, is loved by both Woodhull and Banion. She favors Banion but will not marry a man under a cloud. But during the journey, Banion saves her life several times and is finally enabled to prove his innocence.

to resume her studies at high school after spending her vacation at home. Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Ringering and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Englehart called on Mrs. Ira Ringering Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ringering were called to Brainerd Tuesday by the death of her brother, Arthur Jackson. The funeral was held Friday.

Enoch Swanson was in Brainerd Monday.

Ben Holsapple and Joe Knerr were over at Seward Holsapple Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fallon, F. Fallon and children and Mrs. F. Houle called on Mrs. Holsapple last Tuesday.

We all appreciate the fine weather the weather man has handed out to us the past few days. Hope we have more like it.

WEST OAK LAWN

We are glad to report that Mrs. C. Strang who had a paralytic stroke a short time ago is rapidly improving.

Miss Mabel McKay left Saturday for Wacania, Minn., to resume her teaching duties after spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McKay.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Swendeman of Brainerd visited at the Alvin Andrew home Sunday afternoon.

Miss Martha E. Mecklenburg returned Saturday from Nashua, Minn., to take up her teaching duties in the West Oak Lawn school. She spent the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Mecklenburg.

Alvin Andrew, Jr., and Minnie Hagenbart visited with the Congdon children Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. H. Nubbe is now at the St. Joseph's hospital receiving treatment for rheumatism. Alfred Nubbe has returned home from the hospital but is not yet able to be around.

Raleigh Obenchain was a caller at Frank Hagenbart's Saturday evening.

Mrs. A. J. Andrew and son Alvin visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Strang Sunday evening.

Henry Congdon shot his sixth wolf Sunday afternoon. He reports this his 19th wolf in all. Sunday afternoon he chased the wolf from Andrew's place till nearly to 6th street; the wolf keeping out of range of his gun till then.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Congdon were callers in Brainerd Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Sullivan and baby of Iron River, Wis. are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Borg.

School opened Monday with an attendance of 31. There are now 33 enrolled.

Willing Oak Leaves Sewing club held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. John Strobel Tuesday.

Mrs. Frank Hagenbart and Minnie and Henry Hagenbart visited Thursday evening at the home of Alvin Andrew's.

Mrs. Geo. McKay, Hortense and Peter McKay, Henry Hagenbart, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Andrew and children, Mrs. E. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Olson, and I. Swift were some of the people of Oak Lawn who were shoppers in Brainerd Saturday.

Minnie and Henry Hagenbart visited Friday afternoon at Alvin Andrew's.

Miss Alice Borg spent New Year's with her aunt, Mrs. A. Sandegret returning home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Vanderwerker and daughter Miss Mildred were in Brainerd Saturday. Mildred stayed.

RED PEPPERS END RHEUMATIC PAINS

When you are suffering with rheumatism so you can hardly get around just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Instant relief. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Frees the blood circulation, breaks up the congestion—and the old rheumatism torture is gone.

Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, costs little at any drug store. Get a jar at once. Use it for lumbago, neuritis, backache, stiff neck, sore muscles, colds in chest. Almost instant relief awaits you. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.

Clean Kidneys By Drinking Lots of Water

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

Perry S. Williams

Perry S. Williams, former newspaperman and now the executive secretary of the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce Association, is the author of the libretto of the American grand opera, "Winona," which will have its Minnesota premiere in the new Minneapolis Auditorium Friday evening, January 27. The music of the opera was written by Alberto Bimboni, director of the Washington (D. C.) National Opera and the Philadelphia Operatic Society. Maestro Bimboni reached Minneapolis last week to conduct the final three weeks of rehearsals as well as the production itself. Its presentation for the first time in Minnesota has aroused general statewide interest, and many state organizations are co-operating to help make it a success. Several prominent opera stars from the east will appear in the leading roles. Its presentation will be the outstanding civic, social and musical event of the season in Minneapolis. The opera is based on Minnesota Indian history and the most popular of Minnesota's Indian legends.

Discovery Worth Making

There never was a time like the present when so many secrets of past times have been brought to light. Lanolin, made from the wool of sheep, was the favorite ointment of the Greeks more than two thousand years ago. The secret of its preparation was lost for centuries, but rediscovered in the Nineteenth century, and now the making of lanolin is a great industry.

Shakespeare's "Borrowing"

The famous biographies by Plutarch (46-120 A. D.) were of undoubted service to Shakespeare in writing his plays, "Julius Caesar," "Anthony and Cleopatra," "Coriolanus" and others. Plutarch spent most of his life writing his "Lives" of Greek and Roman celebrities.

Takes the "static" out of buying

There's a peculiar bug sweeping over the world today that has already sunk its teeth into millions.

Its name is Radio.

No one is immune. If it hasn't bitten you yet, your time will come. For some months you will lie absolutely helpless in its power. You may later recover from its effects sufficiently to go about your daily tasks and attend to your social duties, but you will never fully recover.

The experience is indescribably delightful and the pleasure never-ending—if—There's quite an "if" in radio.

We repeat, the pleasure is never-ending, if you get a good radio receiver and good accessories.

And you overcome the "if" by careful reading of radio advertising. Like everything else, good radio sets and accessories are the advertised ones. It doesn't pay to advertise the worthless.

Advertising will help you in radio as it helps you in selecting intrinsic value in everything else. You can rest assured that anything which is continuously advertised, whether it be a radio set or a can of asparagus, has stood the test.

Radio works best in the dark—but there's no need to buy in the dark.

Let the light of advertising show you the right road to radio satisfaction. Read advertising regularly

The course of true love ran anything but smoothly in the old pioneer days, judging from "The Covered Wagon" which opens at the Lyceum theatre tonight on its second triumphant visit.

The great wagon train of 1848 sets out for Oregon. Molly Wingate, the heroine, is loved by both Woodhull and Banion. She favors Banion but will not marry a man under a cloud. But during the journey, Banion saves her life several times and is finally enabled to prove his innocence.

In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Frees the blood circulation, breaks up the congestion—and the old rheumatism torture is gone.

Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, costs little at any drug store. Get a jar at once. Use it for lumbago, neuritis, backache, stiff neck, sore muscles, colds in chest. Almost instant relief awaits you. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.

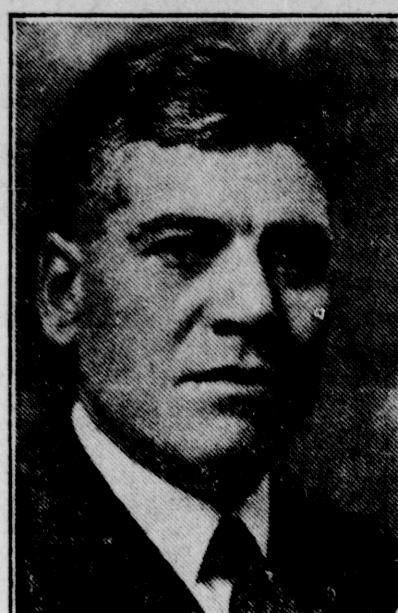

Clean Kidneys By Drinking Lots of Water

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

Perry S. Williams

Perry S. Williams, former newspaperman and now the executive secretary of the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce Association, is the author of the libretto of the American grand opera, "Winona," which will have its Minnesota premiere in the new Minneapolis Auditorium Friday evening, January 27. The music of the opera was written by Alberto Bimboni, director of the Washington (D. C.) National Opera and the Philadelphia Operatic Society. Maestro Bimboni reached Minneapolis last week to conduct the final three weeks of rehearsals as well as the production itself. Its presentation for the first time in Minnesota has aroused general statewide interest, and many state organizations are co-operating to help make it a success. Several prominent opera stars from the east will appear in the leading roles. Its presentation will be the outstanding civic, social and musical event of the season in Minneapolis. The opera is based on Minnesota Indian history and the most popular of Minnesota's Indian legends.

Discovery Worth Making

There never was a time like the present when so many secrets of past times have been brought to light. Lanolin, made from the wool of sheep, was the favorite ointment of the Greeks more than two thousand years ago. The secret of its preparation was lost for centuries, but rediscovered in the Nineteenth century, and now the making of lanolin is a great industry.

Shakespeare's "Borrowing"

The famous biographies by Plutarch (40-120 A. D.) were of undoubted service to Shakespeare in writing his historical plays, "Julius Caesar," "Anthony and Cleopatra," "Coriolanus" and others. Plutarch spent most of his life writing his "Lives" of Greek and Roman celebrities.

Marriage in India

In some of the states of India laws have been promulgated raising the legal marriage to fourteen or sixteen. In Kora the age at which boys may marry has been raised to sixteen, that of girls to twelve, while girls under eighteen may not marry men over thirty-five, nor girls under twenty men over forty-five.

Takes the "static" out of buying

There's a peculiar bug sweeping over the world today that has already sunk its teeth into millions.

Its name is Radio.

No one is immune. If it hasn't bitten you yet, your time will come. For some months you will lie absolutely helpless in its power. You may later recover from its effects sufficiently to go about your daily tasks and attend to your social duties, but you will never fully recover.

The experience is indescribably delightful and the pleasure never-ending—if— There's quite an "if" in radio.

We repeat, the pleasure is never-ending, if you get a good radio receiver and good accessories.

And you overcome the "if" by careful reading of radio advertising. Like everything else, good radio sets and accessories are the advertised ones. It doesn't pay to advertise the worthless.

Advertising will help you in radio as it helps you in selecting intrinsic value in everything else. You can rest assured that anything which is continuously advertised, whether it be a radio set or a can of asparagus, has stood the test.

Radio works best in the dark—but there's no need to buy in the dark.

Let the light of advertising show you the right road to radio satisfaction. Read advertising regularly

THE NICARAGUAN POLICY MISUNDERSTOOD

WHENEVER any blood is spilled in Nicaragua, a number of critics immediately begin to launch broadsides against the American administration. The fact is forgotten that if it were not for the American marines blood would be being spilled there on a scale ten or twenty times as great. And were this the case, all sorts of pressure would be brought to bear on the United States to dispatch troops to Nicaragua and "stabilize" it. And if the United States steadily refused to do that, eventually some foreign power would threaten to, with the result that the United States would be forced, under the Monroe Doctrine, to step in in order to prevent the foreign power from getting a foothold in Nicaragua.

Of course it is regrettable that blood is being spilled in that unfortunate country. It is regrettable that Sandino should continue his futile war. Both Liberals and Conservatives in Nicaragua agree that stability in Nicaragua is impossible without the supervision of the United States. Nicaragua is less a state than a permanent revolutionary chaos. Its history proves that. The United States first had to enter Nicaragua because its then president-dictator, Zelaya, was threatening to convert all Central America into a revolutionary chaos. We may say that the United States has been imperialistic in Nicaragua, but we should also add that its imperialism has been legitimate, enlightened, and, in all probability, inevitable. The only peace Nicaragua has enjoyed has been the peace maintained by the American marines. Had not the United States, in a romantic mood, withdrawn the marines from Nicaragua in 1925, Nicaragua would still be enjoying peace today.

Nicaragua is a cat on the American doorstep. Throw it away as often or as far as we will, it is always to be found on the doorstep again the next morning. If we leave it alone, it falls to pieces, and the people begin killing one another on a wholesale scale. If we go in and attempt to restore order and stability, we are a bloody, ruthless, predatory imperialism. We are inhumane if we let the killing go on, inhumane if we make an effort to halt the killing. We might as well face the fact that the policy of intervention and the policy of non-intervention are alike bound to be unpleasant. The difference between them is that non-intervention is the less practicable of the two. Non-intervention would simply postpone the day of intervention, while during the interval troubles would be accumulating at compound interest. A poised and balanced outlook is necessary when Nicaragua is discussed. Much mischief is caused by the current disposition to ignore the pertinent fact that non-intervention only seems to be an alternate policy, and actually is not one at all.—Minneapolis Tribune.

DEFINING A SPORTSMAN

CARLOS AVERY, former Minnesota game and fish commissioner, in a bulletin of the American Game Protective association, of which he is secretary, has defined a sportsman. He holds that the tendency to use the term too loosely has tended to bring it into disrepute. Here is his extended definition of a sportsman:

"The man who shows a decent consideration for the rights of others, gives the game an even break, strictly observes the letter and spirit of the game and fish law, avoids trespassing or hunting where he is not wanted, carefully avoids any injury to the property or feeling of the owner of the land on which he may go to hunt or fish and drives into the farmer's place at the front gate to make sure of his welcome, who takes more pleasure from the companionship of his dog and friends than in a big bag of game, who goes forth with his head up and with a clear conscience for the wholesome relaxation of a day in the field—is a sportsman."

"The fellow who sulks along the back way into the fields of the farmer without knowing or caring whether he is welcome or not, leaves gates open, cuts wire fences, tramps down the grass and grain, shoots domestic fowl, is careless with fire, ignores or violates the game and fish laws, kills every living creature on sight, dynamites fish, shoots into coverts of birds on the ground and flocks on the water obsessed with an insane desire to kill as many pieces of "game" as possible that he may fill his bag to overflowing, who always claims every bird that falls and shows no consideration for the rights of others, who ravages the countryside like a pestilence—also calls himself a sportsman."

"The common epithet for the latter is 'game hog', but no suitable word has yet been coined to adequately characterize such a pest. Nothing but a long and painful process of education, often accompanied by punitive measures, can elevate this sort of creature to a plane which would entitle him to enter the fraternity of real sportsmen. Many are, through inherent viciousness, ignorance or boorishness, utterly hopeless and should be forever banned from the society of decent outdoor men. No treatment can be accorded such riff-raff but to deny them the privileges of the field and stream."

INSTRUCTION FOR HOUSEKEEPERS

THE DISPATCH notes with interest and satisfaction an announcement of the board of education that a class for young housekeepers is to be started, providing enough interest is manifested in the innovation. Miss Blanche Sersen will use her knowledge of home economics in a most practical manner and teach the class.

Girls who intend to be housewives, and that seems largely the career for many of them, should enter this class. It gives a man some satisfaction to marry a girl who can do more than merely make fudge, who knows how to conduct a household economically and well and who will do her experimenting in cooking in a class room and not on the poor husband.

And then many who are housewives may well take a post-graduate course in home economics and gain new ideas. An improvement or change in menus is relished by any family.

The national census enumerates many housewives. Some girls resent the classification as though it did not mean an occupation. Housekeeping is one of the greatest occupations in the world, for say what you will, unless a man is a crusty old bachelor, his work, his temper, his ability all rests on good housekeeping. What makes the bachelor so irritable is the fact that he constantly changes boarding house or restaurant and is so hard to suit.

We hope that housekeeper class will be largely recruited, that it will be a success and we thank Miss Sersen for blazing a path in this field of pioneer effort. The Dispatch will also be glad to act as an impartial judge of the cooking when it has advanced to a degree of merit attested by the teacher.

There will be more to the curriculum, we suppose, than just cooking, for a household must buy its supplies intelligently, must know the various cuts of meats, the vitamins and calories, the balanced menu, etc.

SYNOPSIS

Jeffrey Shore, an architect driven to despair by approaching blindness, befriends Mickey Grogan, orphaned child of The Dump and through him meets Winifred Davidson. Winifred has been looking to Mickey's welfare and, attracted by Mickey's new friend, decides to help him, too. Her employer, Alexander Cabel, has been disappointed in plans submitted for a group of new factories and she suggests that Jeffrey try his hand at the work. Mickey and Jeffrey are in their new attic quarters above Winifred's apartment while she is in her room wondering how she is to avoid meeting Al Nevers, her bully admirer, who has announced his intentions of coming to her apartment that night in spite of her objections.

She laughed, nervously. "You and Mickey come down and have dinner with me this evening. There'll be so much to talk over!" "Does it mean so much to you, then?" repeated Jeff taking a step forward.

"Yes," she answered softly, looking straight at him. "It means more than you know." The next moment she was gone.

He stood there in the middle of the room looking at the place where he had last beheld her so timidly. He remembered that he had been on his way down to Hell when Mickey had found him and brought him here. Perhaps . . . Perhaps he was going the other way, towards the heights? . . . But it was growing dark again and he could see scarcely a foot in front of him. His shoulders sagged hopelessly and he turned and tried

"Oh, Mickey, 'tain't so! 'Tain't so neither!" exclaimed Susan very much put out by her lover's greetings. "You was da one who perposed to me. I know so, 'cause it ain't Leap Year!"

"Where d'ya git dat stuff 'bout my perposin' to you?" Mickey taunted her. "You was da one who grabbed me when I was weak. You took 'dvantage on me."

"Oh, I never! Mickey Grogan I never took no 'dvantage of you. An' if ya keep on sayin' so I'll sue you like the ladies I seen in da papers. I'll sue you, Mickey Grogan. I'll git ya in court an' sue ya for breach o' promises."

"It ain't bench," scoffed Mickey. "It's britch. Ya mean britch o' promise, only ya ain't 'ducated." "Anyway, I'll sue," persisted Susan. "Ya ain't even asked me to go out with ya, an' us bein' 'ngaged an' all."

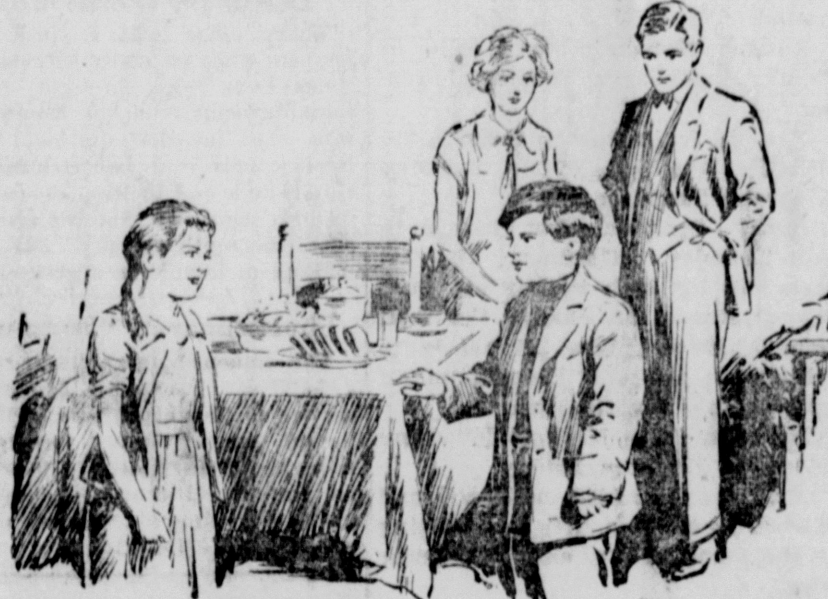

"Go ahead an' sue!" Mickey dared her. "But ya won't git anythin' outta me. What I ain't got ya can't have, ain't it? So go ahead an' sue. I wanna see my pitcher in da papers anyhow."

"I really think you're being very hard on Susan," said Winifred, going to the aid of her sister in distress. "I don't think it's very gentlemanly of you, Mickey, to become engaged to a girl and then forget all about her."

"Believe me anybody who kin forget dat girl's a better mug 'n I am, Gunga Din. She won't let any guy fergit her."

"Just for that," said Susan impudently, "take back your ring, and she removed the hairpin from her finger and held it out to him.

Jeffrey felt a pang for poor

"I 'pologize 'cause I'm a lady."

to find Mickey in the gloom. "It's no use," he whispered. "I hate to tell her so. I've never met anyone so—so—kind and beautiful. But my eyes—how can I draw plans with these eyes?"

"Aw, g'wan, Jeff. Now don't start in mopin' again. Ya ain't gonna quit without tryin', are ya. Crooked says, a man don't know the wonders inside him. He made dat up himself, he did. Ya ain't gonna quit without tryin', are ya?" And there was such a note of incredulity in the boy's voice that the young man felt a bit ashamed of himself.

"You're right, Mickey," and he smiled ruefully. "The least I can do—is to try."

Winifred had one of her best dinners that evening, and her two guests were in better humor than she had ever seen them. Mickey even allowed himself to be drawn into the bathroom to have his face washed, and he did not make the least objection when Winifred got some soap in his eyes. His face looked unnaturally clean and his black hair shone from the water that had been soaked in it. "Gee, I look like a sheik," said Mickey gazing into the mirror. "Da ladies' better look out for me to-night."

No sooner had dinner been finished than there came a knock at the door. Winifred opened it to Susan who looked very much neglected. "Is Michael A. Grogan here?" she asked.

"Who?" inquired Winifred. The high-sounding name caused her a spasm of laughter that she tried hard to control.

"Michael A. Grogan, my feecancy," replied Susan holding up her hand to show Winifred her hairpin engagement ring.

"Sure I'm here," called Mickey, getting up from the table. "Who wants to know?"

"Michael Grogan," said Susan advancing into the room. "Ya oughta be 'shamed o' yourself. Here I been 'ngaged to ya for more'n two days an' I ain't seen no head nor hair o' you. D'Ya call yourself me feecancy?"

"I almost forgot all about ya," said Mickey, "what wit so many wimmin on me mind. Ya gotta watch me close, Suste, or I'll be vamped clear out o' yer sight. D'Ya see me hair? Well, take a good look. I'm a sheik I am."

"Michael Aloysious Grogan, ya ought to be 'shamed o' yerself givin' me all that upstage stuff. An' me your future wife!"

"What's this?" asked Winifred with sudden interest. "What have you two been up to?"

"Oh, not'n much," said Mickey. "In a moment o' temptashun I an' her got 'ngaged. It must a da heat or somepin'. Usually I don't let meself in fer things like dat. I love 'em an' leave 'em. She got me when I was weak, dat's all."

Mickey. He rose from the table and approached the children who stood regarding one another with eyes that seemed to say, "This is the end." Jeffrey took hold of Mickey's arm and dragged the boy towards the girl. "I think you've been rather hard on your fiancée," said Jeff. "And I think it only proper that you should apologize to her."

Mickey looked too incredulous for words. "What?" he shouted. "Me, 'pologize to dat?" and he pointed a derisive finger at Susan.

"Say, I wasn't born yesterday. I think she owes me a 'pology for 'insultin' me afore my best friends."

"The gentleman should always apologize first," said Winifred.

Mickey was loath to believe this, but he went forth to meet Susan with some reluctance. "Aw right, I 'pologize. Only I ain't doin' it from me own free will."

"Oh, well," said Jeffrey, "then it isn't an apology."

"Anybody 'd know that," taunted Susan. She held out the hairpin ring but she didn't seem eager to be rid of it.

"Go on, Mickey and apologize," Winifred urged him.

"Crooked says, Beware of a woman an' de devil," said Mickey. "I didn't beware of de woman an' see de fix I'm in. Aw right, I 'pologize, Susan. I'm sorry I was upstage an' I only hopes you'll 'pologize ta me now."

"That's fair enough," said Jeffrey. "But I didn't say anyting to 'pologize fer," Susan reminded everyone.

"Well, apologize anyway, Susan and show him you're a lady," said Winifred.

"Aw right," grumbled Susan. "I 'pologize 'cause I'm a lady."

"Now, Susan, put the ring back on your finger and I hope you two children will be nice to one another from now on," said Winifred. She placed a hand over her mouth to hide her smile.

Susan did as she had been requested; indeed, it is problematical whether she ever was resigned to the loss of the ring. "Now we're 'ngaged again," said Susan happily.

"De guy always gits da' worst o' da deal," grumbled Mickey taking Susan's arm. "C'mon, Suste. And in a lower voice, so that neither Jeff nor Winifred could hear he whispered, "Let's go down stairs 'n shoot a game o' craps."

After the children had gone, Jeff and Winifred cleared the table. Winifred brought forth sheets of paper and pencils. "Have you ever worked on factory plans before?" the girl asked him.

"Yes, I have," answered Jeff. "but it was quite a number of years ago. Still—I have an idea. If I can only get it down properly!"

Efficient Soldering
When soldering wires to screws, no matter how new they are the screws should always be cleaned with a file, sandpaper or emery paper until they are bright. The soldering will take only a very little fraction of the time if the material to be soldered is bright and clean as it would were the metal the least bit soiled or oxidized.

Efficient Soldering
When soldering wires to screws, no matter how new they are the screws should always be cleaned with a file, sandpaper or emery paper until they are bright. The soldering will take only a very little fraction of the time if the material to be soldered is bright and clean as it would were the metal the least bit soiled or oxidized.

THE NICARAGUAN POLICY MISUNDERSTOOD

WHENEVER any blood is spilled in Nicaragua, a number of critics immediately begin to launch broadsides against the American administration. The fact is forgotten that if it were not for the American marines blood would be being spilled there on a scale ten or twenty times as great. And were this the case, all sorts of pressure would be brought to bear on the United States to dispatch troops to Nicaragua and "stabilize" it. And if the United States steadily refused to do that, eventually some foreign power would threaten to, with the result that the United States would be forced, under the Monroe Doctrine, to step in in order to prevent the foreign power from getting a foothold in Nicaragua.

Of course it is regrettable that blood is being spilled in that unfortunate country. It is regrettable that Sandino should continue his futile war. Both Liberals and Conservatives in Nicaragua agree that stability in Nicaragua is impossible without the supervision of the United States. Nicaragua is less a state than a permanent revolutionary chaos. Its history proves that. The United States first had to enter Nicaragua because its then president-dictator, Zelaya, was threatening to convert all Central America into a revolutionary chaos. We may say that the United States has been imperialistic in Nicaragua, but we should also add that its imperialism has been legitimate, enlightened, and, in all probability, inevitable. The only peace Nicaragua has enjoyed has been the peace maintained by the American marines. Had not the United States, in a romantic mood, withdrawn the marines from Nicaragua in 1925, Nicaragua would still be enjoying peace today.

Nicaragua is a cat on the American doorstep. Throw it away as often or as far as we will, it is always to be found on the doorstep again the next morning. If we leave it alone, it falls to pieces, and the people begin killing one another on a wholesale scale. If we go in and attempt to restore order and stability, we are a bloody, ruthless, predatory imperialism. We are inhumane if we let the killing go on, inhumane if we make an effort to halt the killing. We might as well face the fact that the policy of intervention and the policy of non-intervention are alike bound to be unpleasant. The difference between them is that non-intervention is the less practicable of the two. Non-intervention would simply postpone the day of intervention, while during the interval troubles would be accumulating at compound interest. A poised and balanced outlook is necessary when Nicaragua is discussed. Much mischief is caused by the current disposition to ignore the pertinent fact that non-intervention only seems to be an alternate policy, and actually is not one at all.—Minneapolis Tribune.

DEFINING A SPORTSMAN

CARLOS AVERY, former Minnesota game and fish commissioner, in a bulletin of the American Game Protective association, of which he is secretary, has defined a sportsman. He holds that the tendency to use the term too loosely has tended to bring it into disrepute. Here is his extended definition of a sportsman:

"The man who shows a decent consideration for the rights of others, gives the game an even break, strictly observes the letter and spirit of the game and fish law, avoids trespassing or hunting where he is not wanted, carefully avoids any injury to the property or feeling of the owner of the land on which he may go to hunt or fish and drives into the farmer's place at the front gate to make sure of his welcome, who takes more pleasure from the companionship of his dog and friends than in a big bag of game, who goes forth with his head up and with a clear conscience for the wholesome relaxation of a day in the field—is a sportsman."

"The fellow who sulks along the back way into the fields of the farmer without knowing or caring whether he is welcome or not, leaves gates open, cuts wire fences, tramps down the grass and grain, shoots domestic fowl, is careless with fire, ignores or violates the game and fish laws, kills every living creature on sight, dynamites fish, shoots into coveys of birds on the ground and flocks on the water obsessed with an insane desire to kill as many pieces of "game" as possible that he may fill his bag to overflowing, who always claims every bird that falls and shows no consideration for the rights of others, who ravages the countryside like a pestilence—also calls himself a sportsman."

"The common epithet for the latter is 'game hog', but no suitable word has yet been coined to adequately characterize such a pest. Nothing but a long and painful process of education, often accompanied by punitive measures, can elevate this sort of creature to a plane which would entitle him to enter the fraternity of real sportsmen. Many are, through inherent viciousness, ignorance or boorishness, utterly hopeless and should be forever banned from the society of decent outdoor men. No treatment can be accorded such riff-raff but to deny them the privileges of the field and stream."

INSTRUCTION FOR HOUSEKEEPERS

THE DISPATCH notes with interest and satisfaction an announcement of the board of education that a class for young housekeepers is to be started, providing enough interest is manifested in the innovation. Miss Blanche Sersen will use her knowledge of home economics in a most practical manner and teach the class.

Girls who intend to be housewives, and that seems largely the career for many of them, should enter this class. It gives a man some satisfaction to marry a girl who can do more than merely make fudge, who knows how to conduct a household economically and well and who will do her experimenting in cooking in a class room and not on the poor husband.

And then many who are housewives may well take a post-graduate course in home economics and gain new ideas. An improvement or change in menus is relished by any family.

The national census enumerates many housewives. Some girls resent the classification as though it did not mean an occupation. Housekeeping is one of the greatest occupations in the world, for say what you will, unless a man is a crusty old bachelor, his work, his temper, his ability all rests on good housekeeping. What makes the bachelor so irritable is the fact that he constantly changes boarding house or restaurant and is so hard to suit.

We hope that housekeeper class will be largely recruited, that it will be a success and we thank Miss Sersen for blazing a path in this field of pioneer effort. The Dispatch will also be glad to act as an impartial judge of the cooking when it has advanced to a degree of merit attested by the teacher.

There will be more to the curriculum, we suppose, than just cooking, for a household must buy its supplies intelligently, must know the various cuts of meats, the vitamins and calories, the balanced menu, etc.

SYNOPSIS
Jeffrey Shore, an architect driven to despair by approaching blindness, befriends Mickey Grogan, orphaned child of The Dump and through him meets Winifred Davidson. Winifred has been looking to Mickey's welfare and, attracted by Mickey's new friend, decides to help him, too. Her employer, Alexander Cabel, has been disappointed in plans submitted for a group of new factories and she suggests that Jeffrey try his hand at the work. Mickey and Jeffrey are in their new attic quarters above Winifred's apartment while she in her room is wondering how she is to avoid meeting Al Nevers, her bulky admirer, who has announced his intentions of coming to her apartment that night in spite of her objections.

She laughed, nervously. "You and Mickey come down and have dinner with me this evening. There'll be so much to talk over!" "Does it mean so much to you, then?" repeated Jeff taking a step forward.

"Yes," she answered softly, looking straight at him. "It means more than you know." The next moment she was gone.

He stood there in the middle of the room looking at the place where he had last beheld her so dimly. He remembered that he had been on his way down to Hell when Mickey had found him and brought him here. Perhaps Perhaps he was going the other way, towards the heights? But it was growing dark again and he could see scarcely a foot in front of him. His shoulders sagged hopelessly and he turned and tried

"Oh, Mickey, 'tain't so! 'Tain't so neither!" exclaimed Susan very much put out by her lover's greetings. "You was da one who perposed to me. I know so, 'cause it ain't Leap Year!" "Where d'ya git dat stuff 'bout my perposin' to you?" Mickey taunted her. "You was da one who grabbed me when I was weak. You took 'dvantage on me."

"Oh, I never! Mickey Grogan I never took no 'dvantage of you. An' if ya keep on sayin' so I'll sue you like the ladies I seen in da papers. I'll sue you, Mickey Grogan! I'll git ya in court an' sue ya for beach o' promises."

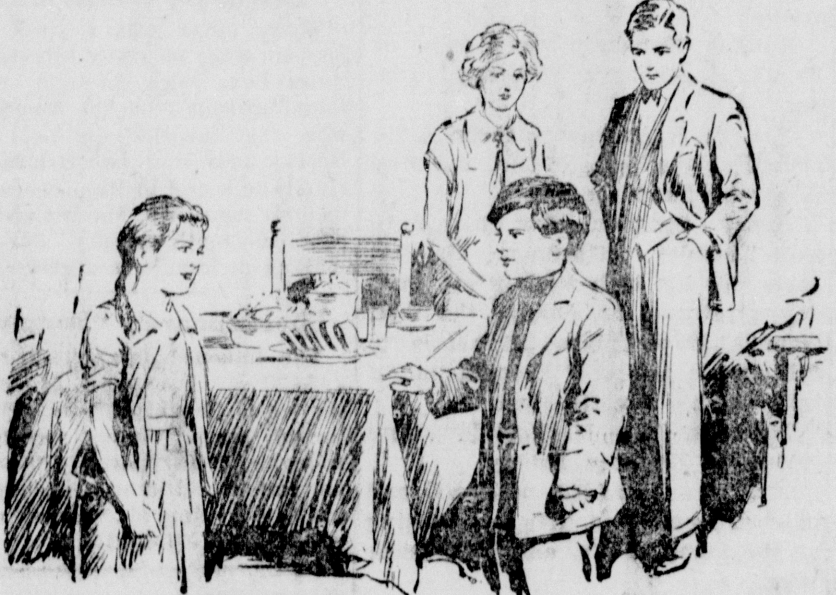

"It ain't beach," scoffed Mickey. "It's brich. Ya mean brich o' promise, only ya ain't 'ducated." "Anyway, I'll sue," persisted Susan. "Ya ain't even asked me to go out with ya, an' us bein' 'ngaged an' all."

"Go ahead an' sue!" Mickey dared her. "But ya won't git anythin' outta me. What I ain't got ya can't have, ain't it? So go ahead an' sue. I wanna see my pitcher in da papers anyhow." "I really think you're being very hard on Susan," said Winifred, going to the aid of her sister in distress. "I don't think it's very gentlemanly of you, Mickey, to become engaged to a girl and then forget all about her."

"Believe me, anybody who kin forget dat girl's a better mug 'n I am, Gunga Din. She won't let any guy forget her."

"Just for that," said Susan imperiously, "take back your ring," and she removed the hairpin from her finger and held it out to him.

Jeffrey felt a pang for poor

"I 'pologize 'cause I'm a lady."

to find Mickey in the gloom. "It's no use," he whispered. "I hate to tell her so. I've never met anyone so—so—kind and beautiful. But my eyes—how can I draw plans with these eyes?"

"Aw, g'wan, Jeff. Now don't start in mopin' again. Ya ain't gonna quit without tryin', are ya. Crooked says. A man don't know the wonders inside him. He made dat up himself, he did. Ya ain't gonna quit without tryin', are ya?" And there was such a note of incredulity in the boy's voice that the young man felt a bit ashamed of himself.

"You're right, Mickey," and he smiled ruefully. "The least I can do—is to try."

Winifred had one of her best dinners that evening, and her two guests were in better humor than she had ever seen them. Mickey even allowed himself to be drawn into the bathroom to have his face washed, and he did not make the least objection when Winifred got some soap in his eyes. His face looked unnaturally clean and his black hair shone from the water that had been soaked in it. "Geo, I look like a sheik," said Mickey glancing into the mirror. "Da ladies' better look out for me to-night."

No sooner had dinner been finished than there came a knock at the door. Winifred opened it to Susan who looked very much neglected. "Is Michael A. Grogan here?" she asked.

"Who?" inquired Winifred. The high-sounding name caused her a spasm of laughter that she tried hard to control.

"Michael A. Grogan, my feecancy," replied Susan holding up her hand to show Winifred her hairpin engagement ring.

"Sure I'm here," called Mickey, getting up from the table. "Who wants ta know?"

"Michael Grogan," said Susan advancing into the room. "Ya oughta be 'shamed o' yourself. Here I been 'ngaged to ya for more'n two days an' I ain't seen no head nor hair o' you. D'ya call yourself me feecancy?"

"I almost forgot all about ya," said Mickey. "What wit so many wimmin on me mind. Ya gotta watch me close, Suster, or I'll be vamped clear out o' yer sight. D'ya see me hair? Well, take a good look. I'm a sheik I am."

"Michael Aloisious Grogan, ya ought ta be 'shamed o' yerself givin' me all that upstage stuff. An' me your future wifel!"

"What's this?" asked Winifred with sudden interest. "What have you two been up to?"

"Oh, not'n much," said Mickey. "In a moment o' temptashun I an' her got 'ngaged. It must 'a been da heat or somethin'. Usully I don't let meself in fer 'tings like dat. I love 'em an' leave 'em. She got me when I was weak, dat's all."

Mickey. He rose from the table and approached the children who stood regarding one another with eyes that seemed to say, "This is the end." Jeffrey took hold of Mickey's arm and dragged the boy towards the girl. "I think you've been rather hard on your fiancée," said Jeff. "And I think it only proper that you should apologize to her."

Mickey looked too incredulous for words. "What!" he shouted. "Me, 'pologize to dat?" and he pointed a derisive finger at Susan. "Say, I wasn't born yesterday. I 'link she owes me a 'pology for 'sultin' me afore my best friends."

"The gentleman should always apologize first," said Winifred.

Mickey was loath to believe this, but he went forth to meet Susan with some reluctance. "Aw right, I 'pologize. Only I ain't doin' it from me own free will."

"Oh, well," said Jeffrey, "then it isn't an apology."

"Anybody 'd know that," taunted Susan. She held out the hairpin ring but she didn't seem eager to be rid of it.

"Go on, Mickey and apologize," Winifred urged him.

"Crooked says. Beware of a woman an' de devil," said Mickey. "I didn't beware of de woman an' see de fix I'm in. Aw right, I 'pologize, Susan. I'm sorry I was upstage an' I only hopes you'll 'pologize ta me now."

"That's fair enough," said Jeffrey. "But I didn't say anyting ta 'pologize fer," Susan reminded everyone.

"Well, apologize anyway, Susan and show him you're a lady," said Winifred.

"Aw right," grumbled Susan. "I 'pologize 'cause I'm a lady."

"Now, Susan, put the ring back on your finger and I hope you two children will be nice to one another from now on," said Winifred. She placed a hand over her mouth to hide her smile.

Susan did as she had been requested; indeed, it is problematical whether she ever was resigned to the loss of the ring. "Now we're 'ngaged again," said Susan happily.

"De guy always gits da' worst o' da deal," grumbled Mickey taking Susan's arm. "C'mon, Susie. And in a lower voice, so that neither Jeff nor Winifred could hear he whispered, "Let's go down stairs 'n shoot a game o' craps."

After the children had gone, Jeff and Winifred cleared the table. Winifred brought forth sheets of paper and pencils. "Have you ever worked on factory plans before?" the girl asked him.

"Yes, I have," answered Jeff. "but it was quite a number of years ago. Still—I have an idea. If I can only get it down properly."

Important Rediscovery

In Egyptian tombs have been found pieces of a brilliant scarlet transparent glass, the composition of which has puzzled generations of scientists. In the Fifteenth century the Chinese rediscovered the secret of this glass, but again the recipe was lost, to be refound by Sir Herbert Jackson, who showed some of it before the British Royal institution.

Gigantic Wild Hogs

There are many different species of wild hogs found in Germany and Austria, Russia in Europe as well as in Asia Minor, Africa, Java and Borneo. They are much larger than the domesticated swine, and the wild boar of Germany, even though not fat, will weigh between 500 and 700 pounds.

HORNSBY OUT WITH FIGHTING DEFENSE OF REPUTATION

STORM CENTER OF BASEBALL'S STRANGE TRADE

"I'M TRADED TO BOSTON AND THAT'S FINE," HE SAID

"I'LL GO THERE AND GIVE THEM THE BEST I'VE GOT"

By FOSTER EATON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 12.—A fighting defense of his reputation "as a ballplayer and as a man" was issued here today by Rogers Hornsby, storm center of baseball's strangest trades.

"My reputation in both respects is as high and as good as anyone's in the game," the star who was traded from the New York Giants to the Boston Braves, told the United Press.

Hornsby's defense was almost barked out when he was informed that a rumor was current in New York that he was transferred to Boston because of an alleged shady deal.

"That's an unadulterated lie," he said. "Some of these people in New York better print their own records."

"Print it in box-car type that my record as a ball player and as a man is as good as there is in the game."

Hornsby added "he didn't care what anyone thought."

"I'm traded to Boston and that's fine. I'll go up there and give them the best I've got."

"No, I do not think New York is getting the best of this trade, but they evidently know what they are doing and why—I don't."

He said he knew nothing of a report he was scheduled to be traded soon from Boston to some other club.

He also declined to discuss the possibility of a 'syndicate agreement' between the two clubs.

"That's something for Judge Landis and the newspapers to find out," he remarked. "I'm traded to Boston and that's all I know about it."

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 12.—Fans of St. Louis waited impatiently today for someone to volunteer the enlightening remark: "Now it can be told."

There was virtually universal agreement with Rogers Hornsby's own statement that his summary transfer from the Giants to the Braves was "funny."

But the remark of the ball star failed to satisfy anyone here, and least of all Rogers Hornsby himself.

"There's something funny about it, all right," he reiterated today, "but one thing I do know—there was no friction between me and Manager McGraw."

Hornsby believes McGraw "had nothing to do with it."

He also denied he was the cause of ill-will among members of the Giants' roster, and scouted the suggestion that his transfer bore any relation to his admitted horse race betting.

The 'Rajah' used sharp words in replying to the suggestions of President Stoneham of the Giants that the trade "was to avoid future conflict in the management of the club."

"I want to make it perfectly clear," he said, "that at no time did I do anything to undermine the position of McGraw. It was McGraw himself who gave out the statement here that I might be his logical successor."

"If he disliked me, then why did he place me in charge of the club when he was ill last year?"

Although admittedly mystified by the trade, Hornsby nevertheless is pointing his future plans in the direction of Boston.

"I'll give President Fuchs and the Boston fans the best I've got—the same as I have done always wherever I have played," he told the United Press.

Meanwhile, the former Cardinals' manager has joined the mid-winter fire-side league and appears as interested in learning the 'why' of his trade as the most rabid fan.

BRAINERD 'Y' MEETS COMPANY B TONIGHT

The Brainerd Y. M. C. A. cagers leave at 6 o'clock tonight for Aitkin where they will meet the Company B team at the Aitkin Armory tonight.

WELKER COCHRAN EARNS EVEN BREAK WITH JAKE SCHAEFER

New York, Jan. 12.—(UP)—After losing the third session in a row in his 18.1 balkline match with Jake Schaefer, Welker Cochran earned an even break in yesterday's play by a sensational spurt in the sixth block.

At the beginning of yesterday's play Schaefer led by 396 points and added sixty-two more in the fifth block. Cochran regained his skill in the evening's play and won 478 to 300.

Schaefer now leads 1,800 to 1,517.

LEGION CAGERS PERFECT PLAYS FOR WEDNESDAY

HEIKKINEN REMAINS ON THE INJURED LIST; LEWIS IS MAINSTAY OF VISITORS

The Legion basketball team emerged from a stiff practice last evening with two more combination plays perfected in preparation for their stiff game with the Moose Lake five next Wednesday evening at the high school gym.

A new system of offensive play will be used in the game and fans will find that the locals have bettered themselves considerably in shooting. The players were drilled for an hour and a half last night in shooting baskets from all angles and in every position.

Captain Bill Heikkinen remains on the injured list with a sore leg but he is expected to be able to take part in next Wednesday's fray.

The Moose Lake team were runners up last year at the state tournament. The team is composed of former high school stars with Lewis in the line-up as well as filling the coaching position.

The opponents for the Little Tigers in the preliminary game will be selected this week.

Hornsby Believes McGraw "Had Nothing to Do With It"

He also denied he was the cause of ill-will among members of the Giants' roster, and scouted the suggestion that his transfer bore any relation to his admitted horse race betting.

The 'Rajah' used sharp words in replying to the suggestions of President Stoneham of the Giants that the trade "was to avoid future conflict in the management of the club."

FASTEST TEAMS IN DISTRICT MEET HERE TOMORROW

SQUADS PRIMED FOR BATTLE ROYAL; BOTH HAVE ENVIABLE RECORDS

COACH KASCH ANNOUNCES THAT HIS MEN ARE IN PERFECT SHAPE

Brainerd high school cagers meet the vital test of the year tomorrow evening when they stack up against the Crosby-Ironton high school team in a conference clash.

Here is a bit of the advance dope on the game: the two fastest teams in the conference will play, neither having lost a conference tilt, both are at their full strength, the players on each team are looking for victory, coaches will use every strategic method to win and unknown plays will be brought into force. In all it will be a mighty great game, one which no fan in Brainerd and district can afford to miss.

The battle will start at 8 p. m. sharp in the high school gymnasium. No preliminary game will be played. Brainerd has won from St. Cloud, Pequot and Staples so far this season. They dropped games to Bemidji, however, by small margins, but Crosby also has lost to the Bemidji crew. Crosby-Ironton has won from Aitkin, Little Falls and Pine River.

Coach Kasch announced today that his team would be in full strength. The boys demonstrated in their spectacular game at St. Cloud that they were capable of going just as fast at the close of the game as at the start.

Coach Woock has drilled his men particularly to meet Brainerd. He realizes that in Brainerd is his big obstacle to race away with district honors.

For the past decade, the inferiority of foreign heavyweights has been axiomatic in the boxing business of these United States.

Only Luis Angel Firpo and Georges Carpentier reached the position of runner-up to the champion, and each was promptly run down before the devastating fists of William Harrison Dempsey.

The greatest ballyhoo the boxing business yet has known carried Georges Carpentier to a title fight with the heavyweight champion of the world in 1921, and almost as much publicity nonsense, coupled with a truly devastating, club-like right hand, got the "Wild Bull of the Pampas" into the ring with Dempsey two years later.

Tomorrow night, however, a third outstanding foreign heavyweight has his chance to pave the way to a meeting with Gene Tunney, the present champion.

Tom Heeney of New Zealand can just about assure himself of a fight for the title by flattening Jack Sharkey of Boston on the night of Friday the 13th. Heeney has been somewhat overlooked by the ballyhoo artists, and has reached his present position of prominence among the heavyweight contenders by hard work and attention to business.

When Tom stood up to Paulino Uzcudun twice, ruining the Basque's reputation for modified murder, the New Zealand champion made a good start toward recognition. By outfighting Johnny Risko, the rubber faced baker's boy from Cleveland, Heeney proved himself an able contender. To get past Sharkey will be something else again.

Yet there is the opportunity, and no logical heavyweight should ask for more. Sharkey has no sustained reputation for impressive victories. The Lithuanian was beaten by Jimmy Maloney a couple of years back, fought a poor fight against Eddie Hoffman in the Garden, and was outpointed by old Mike McTigue for the first ten rounds of their fight in the heavyweight elimination business last winter. In his last important start, Sharkey was knocked out by Jack Dempsey.

Heeney, therefore, has a fair chance of victory, as has any rugged, aggressive heavyweight who can "take it" and keep everlastingly after Sharkey. The odds do not favor the New Zealander, but sentiment seems to. Tom will be a popular favorite when the boxers crawl through the ropes Friday night.

It may be written on the boxing cards that Heeney is merely going in there to be slaughtered as a "build-up" for Sharkey. The Bostonian needs something of the sort to restore public faith in his ability.

Or it may be that the frocked New Zealander is destined to batter his way to a place in the third international heavyweight championship fight of the decade.

SECRETARY WILBUR URGES 20 YEAR NAVY BUILDING

Washington, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur urged today a twenty year navy building and replacement program to cost $3,360,000,000.

At the end of this 20 year program, the navy should embark on another 20 year program, to keep the navy up to required strength. Wilbur told the house naval affairs committee. He had appeared to answer detailed inquiries regarding the proposed immediate $800,000,000 five year building program.

Mary Cassen of the Granite club of Toronto has not been beaten in two years in any swimming race over 100 yards.

During the season of 1900, E. C. Robertson, Purdue fullback, kicked seven goals from placement in a game against Rose Polytechnic.

Wilbur C. McFeely was elected captain of the 1928 Swarthmore college football team. McFeely is a former West Philadelphia high captain.

W. L. Paul, 1930, of Watertown, Fla., has been appointed assistant manager of the Yale varsity football team, taking the place of R. W. Goss.

Another great triple threat is the kind of bridge partner who wonders whether to lead clubs, hearts or diamonds when the strategy calls for spades.

A total of 1,016 chess players competed at a team match on 508 boards in London recently. This is a new world's record for a contest of this kind. Some of the best players in England participated.

A huge tennis stadium is to be constructed at Paris, France, for the final contests in 1928 for the Davis cup. The arena, to surround a center court with nine additional courts, will seat 15,000 spectators.

With the completion of new athletic fields at Michigan and Northwestern, studia of the Western conference seat 496,000. Twenty-five years ago there were exactly 45,000 seats in all the football fields of the conference.

YOUNG CAGE MEN FIND NEW USE OF OLD COURT HOUSE

REVAMP OLD HALL OF JUSTICE INTO BASKETBALL COURT; SEVERAL GAMES PLAYED

COMETS COME THROUGH WITH 34 TO 12 VICTORY OVER HI-Y CLUB RECENTLY

A number of Brainerd boys have found a new use for the old court house. After securing permission for its use, the boys have improvised a gymnasium in the hall of justice and have already staged several interesting basketball games there.

In the last recent game the Comets won from the Hi-Y club by the score of 34 to 12. Good teamwork combined with long shooting paved the way for the Comets' victory.

George McCaffrey and Geist were high scorers for the evening.

The line-ups:
Comets—George McCaffrey, Donald Geist, H. Burt, Hugh McCaffrey and W. Golemboski. Subs: Rice, A. Johnson, Beckley and Ginsberg.

Hi-Y—Bentley, Viken, Ellwood Johnson, Klevens, Alex Nelson. Subs: E. Anderson, Armstrong.
Referee—Bernard Foster.

HAGEN-JONES GO IS NOT LIKELY

Proposed Match Is Disapproved by Association.

As glowing competitive prospect as it would hold, there apparently is no chance that Walter Hagen and Bobby Jones will meet on Florida links or elsewhere this winter for the "world's golf championship."

The principal obstacle is the objection of the United States Golf association to amateur-professional matches of this sort, whether or not gate receipts are involved. It is the view of the amateur governing authorities that such a contest would savor too much of commercialism, under the circumstances.

This position, it is understood, was taken partly as a result of the special 72-hole match in March, 1923, when Hagen took the measure of Jones at St. Petersburg, Fla., by the decisive margin of 12 and 11. The U. S. G. A. frowned on the match at the time, but remained officially aloof inasmuch as elaborate arrangements had been made for it.

Now that he is slated to be a member of the executive committee of the U. S. G. A. for 1928, Jones would be particularly obligated to uphold the policies of the organization, whether or not his personal inclination would favor trying conclusions with Hagen.

The attractiveness of such a match would be enhanced by the fact that Hagen is the American professional champion for the fourth straight year, while Jones holds the British open and United States amateur titles. One bid already has been made for it, in Florida.

Business affairs of both Hagen and Jones might prevent a meeting during the winter season, anyway. Hagen is president of the Rochester (N. Y.) Baseball club now and his plans for playing in the South are uncertain. Jones is giving more thought to his law work than golf.

Bancroft Gets $49,500 From Robins Next Year

Joe Vila, veteran and well-informed New York sporting writer, says that Dave Bancroft, thirty-five years old, may receive $49,500 from the Brooklyn baseball club for playing shortstop next year. This amazing information has been confirmed by former City Magistrate Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Boston Braves, who released Bancroft. Fuchs truthfully announced when Bancroft's contract was turned over to the Brooklyn club that the Boston club had not received a dollar in return. But it is a fact that the Brooklyn club's president-manager signed an ironclad agreement with Fuchs to make two payments of $15,000 each to Bancroft, one when he reports for duty and the other next summer. This money represents the value of Bancroft's release from the Braves, but it goes to the veteran shortstop instead of the Boston club, which, under the terms of the agreement, relinquished claim to his services. Bancroft's Boston contract called for a salary of $19,500, which, it is said, has been assumed by the Brooklyn club.

Costs $1,200 a Man for American Olympic Team

The American Olympic committee figures that its athletic invasion of Amsterdam, Holland, next summer will cost approximately $1,200 per athlete. On this basis, with a team of 300 or more performers in at least a dozen branches of competition, the committee plans soon to launch a campaign to raise $400,000 for the Olympic arroy.

The feature of the financial campaign, as disclosed by Murray Hulbert, president of the Amateur Athletic union, is to ask each city of 25,000 population or more to set a quota on the basis of 1 cent per person. A town of minimum population thus would have a quota of around $70,000.

The main body of the American Olympic team will sail from New York July 12 on the President Roosevelt, which has been chartered for the round trip and will be docked at Amsterdam to be used as a floating hotel while the games are in progress.

The Portland (Ore.) club in the Pacific Coast league liked his play and paid $12,300 for the St. Louis youth.

The White Sox are reported to have paid $123,000 for the St. Louis youth. Cissell is a flashy shortstop with plenty of speed and performs equally as well with the bat.

HORNSBY OUT WITH FIGHTING DEFENSE OF REPUTATION

STORM CENTER OF BASEBALL'S STRANGE TRADE

"I'M TRADED TO BOSTON AND THAT'S FINE," HE SAID

"I'LL GO THERE AND GIVE THEM THE BEST I'VE GOT"

By FOSTER EATON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 12.—A fighting defense of his reputation "as a ballplayer and as a man" was issued here today by Rogers Hornsby, storm center of baseball's strangest trades.

"My reputation in both respects is as high and as good as anyone's in the game," the star who was traded from the New York Giants to the Boston Braves, told the United Press.

Hornsby's defense was almost barked out when he was informed that a rumor was current in New York that he was transferred to Boston because of an alleged shady deal.

"That's an unadulterated lie," he said. "Some of these people in New York better print their own records. 'Print it in box-car type that my record as a ball player and as a man is as good as there is in the game.'"

Hornsby added "he didn't care what anyone thought."

"I'm traded to Boston and that's fine. I'll go up there and give them the best I've got."

"No, I do not think New York is getting the best of this trade, but they evidently know what they are doing and why—I don't."

He said he knew nothing of a report he was scheduled to be traded soon from Boston to some other club. He also declined to discuss the possibility of a "syndicate agreement" between the two clubs.

"That's something for Judge Landis and the newspapers to find out," he remarked. "I'm traded to Boston and that's all I know about it."

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 12.—Fans of St. Louis waited impatiently today for someone to volunteer the enlightening remark: "Now it can be told."

There was virtually universal agreement with Rogers Hornsby's own statement that his summary transfer from the Giants to the Braves was "funny."

But the remark of the ball star failed to satisfy anyone here, and least of all Rogers Hornsby himself.

"There's something funny about it, all right," he reiterated today, "but one thing I do know—there was no friction between me and Manager McGraw."

Hornsby believes McGraw "had nothing to do with it."

He also denied he was the cause of ill-will among members of the Giants' roster, and scouted the suggestion that his transfer bore any relation to his admitted horse race betting.

The 'Rajah' used sharp words in replying to the suggestions of President Stoneham of the Giants that the trade "was to avoid future conflict in the management of the club."

"I want to make it perfectly clear," he said, "that at no time did I do anything to undermine the position of McGraw. It was McGraw himself who gave out the statement here that I might be his logical successor—"

"If he disliked me, then why did he place me in charge of the club when he was ill last year?"

Although admittedly mystified by the trade, Hornsby nevertheless is pointing his future plans in the direction of Boston.

"I'll give President Fuchs and the Boston fans the best I've got—the same as I have done always whenever I have played," he told the United Press.

Meanwhile, the former Cardinals' manager has joined the mid-winter fire-side league and appears as interested in learning the 'why' of his trade as the most rabid fan.

New York, Jan. 12.—(UP)—After losing the third session in a row in his 18.1 balkline match with Jake Schaefer, Welker Cochran earned an even break in yesterday's play by a sensational spurt in the sixth block.

At the beginning of yesterday's play Schaefer led by 396 points and added sixty-two more in the fifth block. Cochran regained his skill in the evening's play and won 478 to 300.

Schaefer now leads 1,800 to 1,517.

LEGION CAGERS PERFECT PLAYS FOR WEDNESDAY

MEET THE FAST MOOSE LAKE FIVE AT B. H. S. GYM; NEW OFFENSIVE STARTED

HEIKKINEN REMAINS ON THE INJURED LIST; LEWIS IS MAINSTAY OF VISITORS

The Legion basketball team emerged from a stiff practice last evening with two more combination plays perfected in preparation for their stiff game with the Moose Lake five next Wednesday evening at the high school gym.

A new system of offensive play will be used in the game and fans will find that the locals have bettered themselves considerably in shooting. The players were drilled for an hour and a half last night in shooting baskets from all angles and in every position.

Captain Bill Heikkinen remains on the injured list with a sore leg but he is expected to be able to take part in next Wednesday's fray.

The Moose Lake team were runners up last year at the state tournament. The team is composed of former high school stars with Lewis in the line-up as well as filling the coaching position.

The opponents for the Little Tigers in the preliminary game will be selected this week.

FASTEST TEAMS IN DISTRICT MEET HERE TOMORROW

SQUADS PRIMED FOR BATTLE ROYAL; BOTH HAVE EN- VIABLE RECORDS

COACH KASCH ANNOUNCES THAT HIS MEN ARE IN PERFECT SHAPE

Brainerd high school cagers meet the vital test of the year tomorrow evening when they stack up against the Crosby-Ironton high school team in a conference clash.

Here is a bit of the advance dope on the game: the two fastest teams in the conference will play, neither having lost a conference tilt, both are at their full strength, the players on each team are looking for victory, coaches will use every strategic method to win and unknown plays will be brought into force. In all it will be a mighty great game, one which no fan in Brainerd and district can afford to miss.

The battle will start at 8 p. m. sharp in the high school gymnasium. No preliminary game will be played. Brainerd has won from St. Cloud, Pequot and Staples so far this season. They dropped games to Bemidji, however, by small margins, but Crosby also has lost to the Bemidji crew. Crosby-Ironton has won from Aitkin, Little Falls and Pine River.

Coach Kasch announced today that his team would be in full strength. The boys demonstrated in their spectacular game at St. Cloud that they were capable of going just as fast at the close of the game as at the start.

Bancroft Gets $49,500 From Robins Next Year

Joe Vila, veteran and well-informed New York sporting writer, says that Dave Bancroft, thirty-five years old, may receive $49,500 from the Brooklyn baseball club for playing shortstop next year. This amazing information has been confirmed by former City Magistrate Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Boston Braves, who released Bancroft. Fuchs truthfully announced when Bancroft's contract was turned over to the Brooklyn club that the Boston club had not received a dollar in return. But it is a fact that the Brooklyn club's president-manager signed an ironclad agreement with Fuchs to make two payments of $15,000 each to Bancroft, one when he reports for duty and the other next summer. This money represents the value of Bancroft's release from the Braves, but it goes to the veteran shortstop instead of the Boston club, which, under the terms of the agreement, relinquished claim to his services. Bancroft's Boston contract called for a salary of $19,500, which, it is said, has been assumed by the Brooklyn club.

Costs $1,200 a Man for American Olympic Team

The American Olympic committee figures that its athletic invasion of Amsterdam, Holland, next summer will cost approximately $1,200 per athlete. On this basis, with a team of 300 or more performers in at least a dozen branches of competition, the committee plans soon to launch a campaign to raise $400,000 for the Olympic argosy.

The feature of the financial campaign, as disclosed by Murray Hulbert, president of the Amateur Athletic union, is to ask each city of 25,000 population or more to set a quota on the basis of 1 cent per person. A town of minimum population thus would have a quota of around $70,000. The main body of the American Olympic team will sail from New York July 12 on the President Roosevelt, which has been chartered for the round trip and will be docked at Amsterdam to be used as a floating hotel while the games are in progress.

Hailed as Great Project

With telegraphic discharge of cannon at short intervals along its entire length, the Erie canal was opened through from Lake Erie to the Hudson river on October 26, 1825. The construction cost of this great canal was $7,692,000.

Cissell From Minors to Majors in Two Years

From minor to major league baseball in two seasons is the story of the playing career of Chalmers W. Cissell, shortstop, who is to report next spring to the Chicago White Sox.

Two years ago Cissell, then twenty-two, stepped from the role of a United States regular at Fort Des Moines to the Des Moines Western league ball club.

The Portland (Ore.) club in the Pacific Coast league liked his play and paid $12,300 for the St. Louis youth.

The White Sox are reported to have paid $123,000 for the St. Louis youth. Cissell is a flashy shortstop with plenty of speed and performs equally as well with the bat.

Cubs Get Kiki Cuyler

Pennant hopes of the Chicago Cubs, which flamed high and then sputtered out last fall, were given fresh fuel with the announcement that Hazen ("Kiki") Cuyler of the Pittsburgh Pirates had been acquired in exchange for Sparky Adams and Pete Scott.

Hawaiian Player Kicks 55 Yards in Bare Feet

Last winter Knute Rockne came back from Hawaii with stories of native kickers getting off 50-yard boots with their bare feet and of crowds that called a player "yellow" when he donned a regulation padded football outfit.

Now Oregon state college has a freshman, Henry Hughes, to bear out Notre Dame's famous coach. Hughes, a Hawaiian boy, dropkicks 55 yards in his bare feet, curling up his toes so that the impact is on the ball of his foot.

Scouting Does Not Pay in Football, Says "Red"

"Scouting doesn't pay in football," said Harold ("Red") Grange. "We professional players realize that we can't learn anything much by watching a rival team in action," said Grange. "We can pick out a weak spot here or there but then we can discover that weak spot on the grid-iron when we play against the team more easily than by 'scouting.' We had members of the Giants at some of our games as our guests."

Signs Three Contracts

Vic Hanson, all-American end and ex-captain of football, baseball and basket ball teams at Syracuse university, has signed his third professional sports contract, since graduation last June. Besides serving as assistant football coach at Syracuse this fall and going South for a tryout with the Yankees next spring, Hanson will play basket ball with the Cleveland Rosenblums this winter. It is not thought that he will be able to break into the Yankee lineup in 1928.

Abolish Gate Fee

Coach Knute Rockne of Notre Dame favors Yale's plan to abolish salaries for football coaches with reservations. "I am for it," Rockne said recently. "The minute they stop charging admission to college football games, I'll give my coaching services free."

He added, however, that he had not heard any rumors of cutting out gate admissions for college games.

BRAINERD 'Y' MEETS COMPANY B TONIGHT

The Brainerd Y. M. C. A. cagers leave at 6 o'clock tonight for Aitkin where they will meet the Company B team at the Aitkin Armory tonight.

The local team hopes to be one of the few teams that has won over the Company B team on their home floor.

RUTH SNYDER, HENRY GRAY TO DIE TONIGHT

"plication is not a stay?" he was asked.
"Precisely," was his answer.
"That is it."

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 12.—(UP)—Ruth Brown Snyder awakened today—the day that was to have been her last on earth—with a chance of a few hours, or even days, more of life before she goes to the electric chair.
Justice Aaron Levy in New York last night granted the Queens woman wife a stay of execution until 10 A. M. Friday. At that time attorneys for the state must show cause why her life should not be preserved until she can appear as a witness in a suit involving the $55,000 insurance policy of her husband, Albert, for whose death she has been sentenced to die.

Should this order, which was delivered to Lawes early today, be honored, it may mean that Henry Judd Gray, Mrs. Snyder's paramour and aide in killing Albert Snyder, also will have a few brief hours more of life.

While the order does not include Gray, Warden Lawes said early today that "the matter of the time of his (Gray's) execution will be given consideration."

The two were to have been led into the death chamber singly, at 11 P. M. tonight to execute the brutal murder of Mrs. Snyder's husband.

There was some question whether the order would be honored by Sing Sing authorities.

Warden Lawes early today was uncertain what action he would take and would make no statement inasmuch as the order had not been served. It will be served later this morning.

"I simply am the agent of the state and its law," the warden said. "I desire to do the right things which will not prejudice the rights of the condemned and I will act after consultation with the proper authorities."

It was understood he planned to confer with the state attorney general early today.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Attorney General Ottinger today declined to express opinion in any way as to the legality or authority of Supreme Court Justice Levy to grant an order which would serve to stay the execution of Mrs. Ruth Snyder tonight.

New York, Jan. 12.—Ruth Snyder's fate was put up to Attorney General Albert Ottinger today. He must decide whether she shall die in the electric chair at Sing Sing tonight or whether the temporary stay granted by Supreme Court Justice Aaron Levy is valid.

Indirectly, the question was back in the hands of Gov. Smith as head of the executive department, although two days ago he denied her appeal for clemency.

Justice Levy's stay, granted on the ground that Mrs. Snyder's testimony was essential in the civil suit over her husband's insurance, was served on Warden Lewis E. Lawes at Sing Sing early today. Lawes referred the question to the executive departments.

The state department of corrections, the attorney general's office, and the governor's department were in communication to decide whether Levy's stay should be honored.

There was a question whether the stay was valid. Some legal authorities held it would have to be approved by a presiding justice of the appellate division of the supreme court. The same authority could vacate Levy's order and it was believed the state might take that course and proceed with the execution of Mrs. Snyder and lover, Henry Judd Gray, as ordered tonight.

A decision was expected during the day. Meanwhile, Lawes proceeded on the assumption that the execution would take place and arrangements for it were not altered.

Meanwhile, Samuel L. Miller, attorney for Gray, moved to prevent the execution of his client tonight. He prepared papers asking for a writ of habeas corpus and planned to present them immediately to Judge Henry W. Goddard in federal court.

He also sent a message to Governor Smith, asking that Gray be given equal treatment with Mrs. Snyder and that if her stay holds, Gray be given a similar one.

CHAMBERLIN AND WILLIAMS OFF ON ENDURANCE FLIGHT

Roosevelt Field, New York, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Roger Williams took off from Roosevelt field at 10:11:53 A. M. today on another attempt to regain the world endurance flight record for the United States.

A similar attempt yesterday by the fliers failed four hours after the start when their gasoline pump ceased to function, stopping the flow of fuel from the large storage tanks of the Bellanca plane to the gravity tanks in the wings, which feed the motor.

The New York-to-Germany pilot and Williams, a commercial flier, are after the mark which Germany took from the United States last summer when Edvard and Ristic, the two German pilots, set a new record of 52 hours, 22 minutes, and 31 seconds of continuous flying.

Chamberlin was at the controls of the plane which is owned by A. R. Martine, wealthy Wall Street banker.

The fliers hoped to remain in the air for from 5 to 60 hours. Should they be successful, they would not land again until Saturday night.

Chamberlin had hoped to get away on today's attempt at dawn, but in addition to the trouble with the gasoline pump, it was found that a dump valve on the main tank had sprung a leak. A new valve was installed and the tank refueled.

"GREAT SUCCESS IN OUR HOME"

Father John's Medicine Again Proves Its Value—For Colds, Coughs and Body Building

"We use Father John's Medicine with great success continually in our home," writes Miss Helen Boles of 1024 Fourth St., Minneapolis, Minn., in a recent letter.

For colds and as a preventative of the more serious ailments which often develop from colds Father John's Medicine has come to be the standard home medicine in countless homes.

For over 70 years this medicine has proved its value and it is worth knowing that there is absolutely no alcohol nor nerve deadening drugs of any kind in any form in Father John's Medicine.

NEARLY MAD WITH RHEUMATIC PAINS!

"Nearly every day, especially in damp weather, I suffered terribly from shooting pains and sharp twinges in my legs and arms. Nothing gave me any relief and at times I thought I would go mad. When I tried 'St. Jacob's Oil' it was with no hope at all. The very first application brought relief and I have had perfect comfort since."

Good old "St. Jacob's Oil" certainly does relieve the pains and aches of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuritis, Lumbago and Neuralgia. This soothing, penetrating oil seems to reach right in through the pores and draw out all the pain and ache. And there is no burning of the skin. Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacob's Oil" at your druggist and try it out on any pain, ache, sprain or swelling.

WOMAN CHARGED WITH ISSUING WORTHLESS CHECKS

Minneapolis, Jan. 12.—(UP)—Janet Brooks, 40, wanted by police here and several other Minnesota cities in connection with the issuance of several worthless checks, is under arrest at Chicago, and will be returned here Saturday.

Mrs. Brooks, formerly of Minneapolis, was released from the state reformatory for women at Shakopee December 11, 1927, after having served a year's sentence on a forgery charge from Minneapolis. She returned here, and according to police, passed nearly $1,000 in bad checks on merchants. Then she went to the iron range where another batch of worthless paper brought her $2,000, the police said.

Are You Charging Off Depreciation On Yourself? Every successful businessman knows that a certain sum must be charged off each year for depreciation on his plant. Are you charging off something on yourself for the day when your earning capacity will cease, and you must live on your savings? Marshall Field once said, "If you want to succeed, save. This is true not so much because of the value of the money which the young man who saves accumulates, but because of the infinitely greater value of the system and organization which the practice of saving introduces into his life. I consider it to be almost the greatest element in making for a young man's success."

The J. C. Penney Company asks you to pay cash for your purchases and carry them home, so that you may have the chance to save a small sum each week on your daily needs. It is these small sums that will take care of that "depreciation fund" later on in life.

NEW PRESIDENT, R. E. WYETT, ACTS

Assumes Leadership of the Brainerd Chamber of Commerce

SUCCEEDS R. R. GOULD

Annual Reports Made Indicated 1927 Was a Busy Year

A large attendance at the Chamber of Commerce meeting last night saw new officers take their place and heard annual reports and forecasts of a year of progress for the institution.

R. E. Wyett, new president, in assuming the chair, complimented R. R. Gould upon his two years of endeavor and success in guiding the institution. Mr. Wyett asked all members to give their best thought and ideas for the betterment of Brainerd.

"We wish to build on the foundation already laid," said President Wyett.

R. R. Gould, retiring president, in his address said 1927 had been a year of gratifying activity in the Chamber of Commerce. Seventy meetings were held in the rooms by gatherings calculated to be of public or semi-public benefit by approximately 30 or 40 different groups including farmers, educators, fish and game boosters, Crow Wing County Historical society, etc., besides many meetings by Chamber committees and directors.

"The Chamber has sponsored publicity through the press, both local and outside, through the Ten Thousand Lakes of Minnesota association, by the distribution of approximately 32,000 Crow Wing county maps, by the erection of a road sign on the highway south of Elk River and other means. Local papers, especially the Dispatch, have assisted freely.

"We have sought to cooperate with the farming interests of the surrounding territory, entertaining a farmers institute with a lunch in February last; later a lunch at the gathering of the Land O'Lakes association and a big celebration last summer, when the 24 dairy sires were redistributed, the latter being attended by President Charles Donnelly of the Northern Pacific and other visitors of note.

"We have endeavored to foster a friendly and mutually helpful attitude as regards the Northern Pacific Railway company. The Northwest Paper Co., to whose plant we paid an official visit and received a hearty reception; the Brainerd Foundry Co., the Kampmann Sash and Door Factory, as well as other industries within our limits."

Other new officers speaking briefly were A. G. Trommald, F. J. Lowey, B. L. Lagerquist, F. H. Gruenhagen and J. F. Cibazar.

F. J. Lowey brought up the matter of an arch on South Sixth street commemorating Brainerd as a gateway city to the 10,000 lakes. Its feasibility was referred to a committee consisting of Robert Nichols, F. J. Lowey, D. C. Gray, Henry Hoffmann, Dr. R. A. Beise and Wm. V. Turcotte.

Dr. R. A. Beise referred to the meeting at St. Paul in February when hard surfaced roads are to be considered. On motion the matter was referred to the proper committee and the Chamber will have representation at the meeting.

The American Legion armory project was considered and a committee named to represent the Chamber at the meeting, consisting of Hilding Swanson, F. J. Lowey, Dr. E. C. Herzog, Frank G. Hall and Charles W. Hoffman.

A resolution from the Crosby Commercial club referring to the hope that the five mile new grade on Trunk Highway No. 2 west of Crosby receive a light coat of gravel and that it be paved shortly, as directed to Commissioner Babcock, was read. The resolution was referred to F. J. Lowey and committee for amendment, as many resolutions at Brainerd had desired the entire highway of No. 2 via Northeast Brainerd paved.

John H. Krekelberg's motion carried that a communication be addressed the Northern Pacific railway company suggesting as much work as possible be given the shops and other railway activities in Brainerd. J. B. Anderson gave his views stating he thought there would be considerable extension of shop work here.

To the board of directors was referred a possible resolution by the Chamber expressing views on the proposed merger of Northern railways.

CHURCH CURRENT EXPENSE DEBT MET

Finance Committee of Methodist Church Raises $1075 Since Last October

ASIDE FROM BUDGET

Dr. C. H. McCrea, of Duluth Gives Talk; Sunday School Board Meets

An all-church family gathering was held at the Methodist church last evening to celebrate the cancellation of a troublesome current expense debt of gradual accumulation. After a bounteous free supper given by the ladies aid society, and a song service which included such hymns as "I Love Thy Kingdom, Lord," and "True Hearted, Whole Hearted," the finance committee through its chairman, C. O. Peterson told how a total of $1075 had been gathered in cash, aside from the regular budget since last October.

Appreciation was expressed by the chairman of the willingness of all the church to help in the enterprise, modestly disclaiming credit for himself, giving it to the committee and contributors. This report was followed by an entertaining address by Dr. C. H. McCrea of Duluth, district superintendent. His spring visitation to the church will be on Sunday, May 13. A pleasing incident was the presentation of a bouquet of beautiful roses to Rev. and Mrs. Morris L. Evers by O. C. Skauge.

The King's Heralds conducted a candy booth which netted them a neat sum for their flower fund. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Walter Smith. A Sunday school board meeting under the leadership of Fred Lind was held after adjournment.

CITY LIFE RESULTS IN CONSTIPATION

Science Says 90% of Modern City People are Sufferers

Constipation is a real danger. You may suffer without knowing the cause—even if your bowel movements are regular they may not be complete, and the same decayed material found in cases of irregularity may be present in your system, poisoning you slowly.

Headaches, lassitude, loss of vitality, sallow cheeks, nervousness, and increased susceptibility to serious disease which may result in premature disability or death—this is the price of intestinal poisoning. Don't take chances with it!

Soft life and soft diet cause the trouble. Add roughage to your diet—it will protect you. Don't form the dangerous laxative habit—the natural way is best. Add true 100% bran—Pillsbury's Health Bran—to your diet. It is the best source of the bulk and roughage which is so vital to your health.

Warning—be sure you get the right bran. When your doctor says, "Eat bran," he means a true 100% bran—Pillsbury's Health Bran. Because it is unsweetened, uncooked, and unadulterated, it really does the work—you get the full, gentle, natural laxative action of the unbroken flakes. Use it to prepare delicious foods—muffins, tea cakes, apple cake, macaroons, doughnuts, etc.—recipes are on every package. Eat it some way three times a day.

NEW PRESIDENT, R. E. WYETT, ACTS

SUCCEEDS R. R. GOULD

Annual Reports Made Indicated 1927 Was a Busy Year

A large attendance at the Chamber of Commerce meeting last night saw new officers take their place and heard annual reports and forecasts of a year of progress for the institution.

R. E. Wyett, new president, in assuming the chair, complimented R. R. Gould upon his two years of endeavor and success in guiding the institution. Mr. Wyett asked all members to give their best thought and ideas for the betterment of Brainerd.

"We wish to build on the foundation already laid," said President Wyett.

R. R. Gould, retiring president, in his address said 1927 had been a year of gratifying activity in the Chamber of Commerce. Seventy meetings were held in the rooms by gatherings calculated to be of public or semi-public benefit by approximately 30 or 40 different groups including farmers, educators, fish and game boosters, Crow Wing County Historical society, etc., besides many meetings by Chamber committees and directors.

"The Chamber has sponsored publicity through the press, both local and outside, through the Ten Thousand Lakes of Minnesota association, by the distribution of approximately 32,000 Crow Wing county maps, by the erection of a road sign on the highway south of Elk River and other means. Local papers, especially the Dispatch, have assisted freely.

"We have sought to cooperate with the farming interests of the surrounding territory, entertaining a farmers institute with a lunch in February last; later a lunch at the gathering of the Land O'Lakes association and a big celebration last summer, when the 24 dairy sires were redistributed, the latter being attended by President Charles Donnelly of the Northern Pacific and other visitors of note.

"We have endeavored to foster a friendly and mutually helpful attitude as regards the Northern Pacific Railway company. The Northwest Paper Co., to whose plant we paid an official visit and received a hearty reception; the Brainerd Foundry Co., the Kampmann Sash and Door Factory, as well as other industries within our limits."

Other new officers speaking briefly were A. G. Trommald, F. J. Lowey, B. L. Lagerquist, F. H. Gruenhagen and J. F. Cibazar.

F. J. Lowey brought up the matter of an arch on South Sixth street commemorating Brainerd as a gateway city to the 10,000 lakes. Its feasibility was referred to a committee consisting of Robert Nichols, F. J. Lowey, D. C. Gray, Henry Hoffmann, Dr. R. A. Beise and Wm. V. Turcotte.

Dr. R. A. Beise referred to the meeting at St. Paul in February when hard surfaced roads are to be considered. On motion the matter was referred to the proper committee and the Chamber will have representation at the meeting.

The American Legion armory project was considered and a committee named to represent the Chamber at the meeting, consisting of Hilding Swanson, F. J. Lowey, Dr. E. C. Herzog, Frank G. Hall and Charles W. Hoffman.

A resolution from the Crosby Commercial club referring to the hope that the five mile new grade on Trunk Highway No. 2 west of Crosby receive a light coat of gravel and that it be paved shortly, as directed to Commissioner Babcock, was read. The resolution was referred to F. J. Lowey and committee for amendment, as many resolutions at Brainerd had desired the entire highway of No. 2 via Northeast Brainerd paved.

John H. Krekelberg's motion carried that a communication be addressed the Northern Pacific railway company suggesting as much work as possible be given the shops and other railway activities in Brainerd. J. E. Anderson gave his views stating he thought there would be considerable extension of shop work here.

To the board of directors was referred a possible resolution by the Chamber expressing views on the proposed merger of Northern railways.

Committee Reports

The finance committee reported through its Chairman F. H. Gruenhagen collections during the year of 1927, $2,142.63 and disbursements of $2,116.86. Balance of dues to collect $165.

The house and social committee, Frank G. Hall chairman and F. E. Stout, secretary gave a report of receipts and disbursements for 1927. Receipts were $159.11. Expenses of suppers $140.94, papers and magazines $14.80. Balance on hand $3.37.

A. G. Trommald, treasurer of the Pure Bred Sires association reported balance on hand March 31, 1927 $2, collection for bull show $452.35 and sale of two bulls $161.38, a total of $615.73. There was expended July 30, disbursements for show grounds and premiums $420.18, paid for Weatherly bull and papers on same $102, leaving a balance on hand of $93.55.

John A. Hoffbauer, chairman of publicity committee, reported on work done during the year ranging from newspaper publicity for various conventions and Chamber activities, to assisting in "glad-handing" tourists, aiding in placing sign near Elk River, etc. Addresses were made at various conventions furthering the cause of winter motoring, open roads, snow removal, extension of trade in winter months.

John H. Krekelberg, chairman of the industrial promotion committee, reported on work done during the year and the status of the garment factory. The factory is assured, said Mr. Krekelberg, and he thanked members of the committee and Chamber members and others for the support accorded. Some stock remains to be sold and the committee will continue its canvass.

J. P. Anderson, chairman of the Athletic park committee, reported on improvement work carried on the past year at the park. A balance of $118 is in the treasury. Mr. Anderson some months ago filed a detailed statement on receipts and disbursements.

D. H. Fullerton reported on the League of Minnesota Municipalities convention his committee had secured for Brainerd. It will be a three days gathering to be held the middle of June and following closely the Lions convention, and to be held at Brainerd and Breezy Point. The Chamber rooms will be used for registration. Other halls required will be the Iron Exchange hall, high school assembly room, U. C. T. hall. A band concert will be given at Lum park. The Chamber will be called on for transportation, as a banquet is to be held at Breezy Point lodge. The city is to be illuminated specially during the convention. W. D. McKay, chairman of one of the League of Municipality committees, also spoke about the convention.

Hilding Swanson, of the county fair committee, spoke of the work of his committee. All fair and honorable means will be used to gain the institution for Brainerd. Ben Wagner of Pequot spoke briefly and said the proposition had come up four or five times in the last 15 years. "Get the fair if you can," he suggested, "and if you fail, then support Pequot."

Headaches, lassitude, loss of vitality, sallow cheeks, nervousness, and increased susceptibility to serious disease which may result in premature disability or death—this is the price of intestinal poisoning. Don't take chances with it!

Soft life and soft diet cause the trouble. Add roughage to your diet—it protected primitive man, and it will protect you. Don't form the dangerous laxative habit—the natural way is best. Add true 100% bran—Pillsbury's Health Bran—to your diet. It is the best source of the bulk and roughage which is so vital to your health.

Warning—be sure you get the right bran. When your doctor says, "Eat bran," he means a true 100% bran—Pillsbury's Health Bran. Because it is unsweetened, uncooked, and unadulterated, it really does the work—you get the full, gentle, natural laxative action of the unbroken flakes. Use it to prepare delicious foods—muffins, tea cakes, apple cake, macaroons, doughnuts, etc.—recipes are on every package. Eat it some way three times a day.

Betty and Her Old Barn

By BENTON JAMES

(Copyright.)

WHEN the wolf prowled near enough to the door of the old Wycliff estate to cause young Betty Wycliff serious anxiety she decided that the most sensible thing to do was to sell the old home itself and take up her abode in the stable—commonly called the barn. The new owners were quite willing that she should keep the barn since they would be putting up modern garages.

Its position was in direct line of the railway approach to the growing little suburb, which, before its tendency to sprout, was justly called Othmanap. But, with a generous supply of the fertilizers—builders, estate offices, butchers, etc.—the growth began and they wisely changed the name to Othmanap.

So Betty's old barn stood like a veritable lighthouse in its prominent position on High street and its three great sides gazed flatly at anyone approaching from any of three directions. The front, fortunately, held a secluded southern approach all to itself and this little right-of-way Betty had lined with tall hollyhocks and slim upright fir trees.

The prowling footpads of the wolf were too close for Betty to have done much except install a bathroom and kitchen and hardwood floors in her barn. She wanted very much to make good in the little village in which all her forefathers had been reared. An attractive sign down at the rustic gate leading to the barn informed the passer-by that Miss Wycliff taught dancing and elocution.

It was between a dancing and an elocution lesson that Betty watched the approach of a young man.

Betty soon learned that he was the owner of the new department store that was even then nearing completion in the heart of Othmanap's shopping district.

"Miss Wycliff," he jumped straightway into his reason for intruding, "I will pay you $500 down and another $500 when the sign's finished if you will rent out that east wall of your barn to me for advertising purposes."

"Wait a moment," cried Betty, "until my brain regains its poise. I never see the outside of my barn—at least not on that side and—a thousand dollars a year would mean an awful lot to me. Do you think—that is—could it be done without a lot of printing?"

The young man thought most anything could be done if Betty were just to keep on looking at him with those limpid eyes.

"If I have my artist chap consult you before beginning—will that do? And if Othmanap grows as it's bound to and takes my store along with it, you shall have double that rental in another year." And seeing consent in Betty's eyes he arose, squeezed her hand until she nearly squeaked and was off to arrange with his artist.

He had not been gone an hour when the owner of the new butcher shop came up the path with the self-same dreams of an advertisement in his head and the exact same figures in the way of rental.

"But I simply couldn't stand it to have pictures of sausages and those sides of lamb and beef rioting on my barn walls," cried Betty.

"The decorative scheme shall be left entirely to you," said the young butcher, quite overjoyed at the site he had secured.

The town baker secured the third and remaining wall and Betty knew that the old prowling wolf was gone.

She retired in a somewhat wilted state to her little kitchen to brew her self a cupful of tea. Certainly having walls to one's barn was a greater asset than having a brain in one's head for the teaching of dancing and elocution.

So while Betty sipped her comforting cupful of tea the owners of the department store, the butcher shop and the baker shop were one by one dickered with the only artist that Othmanap had ever known. He was but a visitor.

His efforts to secure fame and fortune in miniature painting had so far failed, and it was with extreme joy that he welcomed the orders to take up his brushes in the interest of advertising.

"But you must consult the owner of the barn," each had warned him. "I have a scheme that will suit her," laughed the artist. "We will simply paint crowds of well-dressed people rushing toward the open doors of the shops of you three good gentlemen."

And because Betty had a brain in her head she promptly started a tea-and-coffee room in conjunction with elocution and dancing. Young Martin Wells, swinging on his painting scaffold, thought the world a lovely place and wondered why he had ever dickered about with little dabs of paint when he could splash it in bucketsful on the barn walls of the most lovely girl that either town or suburb had ever produced.

Betty stepped out from time to time to admire the work of the young artist and to gaze wonderingly up at anyone who could so transform the flat walls of a barn into dreams of color. She knew, too, that he would one day be a leading mural decorator and that she—but what else Betty knew was being expressed beautifully in young Wells' eyes as he gazed happily down at her.

Early Coeducation

Coeducation dates from the establishment of free elementary and secondary schools in the United States, beginning about 1828. The first institution for collegiate institution admitting both men and women was Oberlin Collegiate Institute, opened in 1833.

Know Your Sweetheart by His Handwriting

By EDNA PURDY WALSH
Editor, Character Reading Magazine.

Will He Work in Public?

There is a desire to work for humanity and the general welfare of the public indicated in most writing but the interesting thing to search for is the sign of action and initiative—the actual will to put through the plan to benefit mankind. Here are some of the keys:

First we will look at the capital M. If the latter part of this letter is higher than the other parts and if, at the same time, the upper loop of the letter f is larger than the lower, then we may be sure that the subconscious urge of that writer is to teach others or help many. Now, if the first part of the M is low and not in proportion to the other parts, we will find a writer lacking in self-esteem. He will not drive himself to act because he does not take a lesson from his failures. He glosses over the error with excuses and makes no further progress by his lesson.

T bars will be to the left of the upright and low on the upright in the writing of one who does not feel the urge to make use of life. T's will be high toward the heaven in the one who is here to help others. T bars will be to the right of the upright and the terminals will reach out toward the other fellow. Large writing and words far apart indicate the humanitarian.

Note.—Do not make final judgment until other signs in writing are studied (Copyright.)

An Old Recipe to Darken Hair

By JANICE RANDALL

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

Young Martin Wells, swinging on his painting scaffold, thought the world a lovely place and wondered why he had ever puddled about with little dabs of paint when he could splash it in bucketfuls on the barn walls of the most lovely girl that either town or suburb had ever produced.

Betty stepped out from time to time to admire the work of the young artist and to gaze wonderingly up at anyone who could so transform the flat walls of a barn into dreams of color. She knew, too, that he would one day be a leading mural decorator and that she—but what else Betty knew was being expressed beautifully in young Wells' eyes as he gazed happily down at her.

Early Coeducation

Coeducation dates from the establishment of free elementary and secondary schools in the United States, beginning about 1823. The first institution for collegiate instruction admitting both men and women was Oberlin Collegiate Institute, opened in 1833.

Know Your Sweetheart by His Handwriting

By EDNA PURDY WALSH
Editor, Character Reading Magazine.

Will He Work in Public?

There is a desire to work for humanity and the general welfare of the public indicated in most writing but the interesting thing to search for is the sign of action and initiative—the actual will to put through the plan to benefit mankind. Here are some of the keys:

First we will look at the capital M. If the latter part of this letter is higher than the other parts and if, at the same time, the upper loop of the letter f is larger than the lower, then we may be sure that the subconscious urge of that writer is to teach others or help many. Now, if the first part of the M is low and not in proportion to the other parts, we will find a writer lacking in self-esteem. He will not drive himself to act because he does not take a lesson from his failures. He glosses over the error with excuses and makes no further progress by his lesson.

T bars will be to the left of the upright and low on the upright in the writing of one who does not feel the urge to make use of life. T's will be high toward the heaven in the one who is here to help others. T bars will be to the right of the upright and the terminals will reach out toward the other fellow. Large writing and words far apart indicate the humanitarian.

Note—Do not make final judgment until other signs in writing are studied (Copyright.)

An Old Recipe to Darken Hair

By JANICE RANDALL

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.
